The Wineskin

PRINCETON THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY • FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1965 • VOL. 2 • No. 1

The Wineskin Is Back

It has been 56 days since you received your regular Wineskin but we're back in full force—just like classes. Submit all announcements, stories and other printable odds and ends to The Student Publications Office, 115 Hodge Hall. The deadline for all material is the Friday preceding the next week's issue.

Organ Recitals To Be Given

A series of organ recitals on the new Moller instrument in Miller Chapel has been set for the month of February. The recitals will be played on Thursdays for one-half hour from 1:35 to 2:05 p.m.

Michael Korn will be the organist on February 11. On February 18 Peter Brown will be at the console, and Joan Lippincott will play on February 25. The recitals will give young artists an opportunity to perform a variety of works and students and faculty a chance to hear them.

Report From Mississippi

Princeton Seminary senior Dwyn Mounger talks with bricklayer John Moses at the St. Matthew's Baptist Church, Flowood, Miss. This is one of the 13 new buildings currently being erected by the Committee of Concern for Negro congregations victimized by arsonists.

THE WINESKIN is happy to present Mr. Mounger's report to the seminary community. The editors commend students and faculty who shared in this tangible expression of concern for Christian brothers. Such stewardship efforts which meet immediate needs are welcomed and encouraged as a part of the stewardship of the whole Christian life.

by Dwyn Mounger

It is a long way from the serene campus of Princeton Seminary to the St. Matthew's Baptist Church, on the winding road near the river levee in Rankin County, Miss. Yet the generosity and concern of students and faculty have helped draw the two closer together. St. Matthews is one of the 36 Negro churches in Mississippi burned or dynamited during the past year. But where only blackened remains of its original building stood three months ago, a new brick and concrete structure is rapidly being completed.

The donations of the Princeton Seminary community are now helping to rebuild St. Matthews and 12 other houses of worship. In a campaign sponsored by the Church and Society Committee last November a total of $601.55 was raised for the Committee of Concern, an interracial group of 23 Protestant Jewish, and Roman Catholic clergymen in Mississippi. This organization supervises the distribution of funds and equipment to the churches, regardless of denomination, which have been victimized by unknown night riders.

Chairman and originator of the Committee of Concern is Dr. William P. Davis, a Baptist minister and native Mississippian. He has taken full charge of publicizing the work of the Committee, meeting with the stircken congregations, obtaining voluntary labor, funds, and equipment, and supervising public relations in communities where churches are being restored.

Mississippians themselves have donated much of the money and materials, and Jackson architects have provided plans for attractive, brick buildings. One of the churches restored by the Committee is the Antioch Baptist, where "Christmas carpenters" from Oberlin College, Ohio, worked during the holidays.

The result of this campaign has been little short of a miracle. Men and

by Ken Parker

With finals over, papers in and comprehensives all disposed of, it is time once again for the sports world to come alive. The b-ball games held during reading period have given a preview of how the league will shape up and it appears that Brown Hall is the team to beat. With lots of height and good shooting, Brown just might sweep in with a second trophy by spring.

The game schedule for this week will pit the Off-Campus against Brown at 7:00 p.m. and in the night-cap, Alex will meet Hodge. These games are to be played on TUESDAY, February 9. Please note the usual Wednesday time has been moved to make room for a varsity game.

The varsity boys have been swishing nets in good fashion and have yet to be topped. Rumor is going around that the scouts are looking over Warren Lee as pro material, mostly as a rebounder. You are encouraged to come out some time and give these boys some support; they have a really fine squad.

The entries for the table tennis tournament are in and the seeded tournament will be posted near the tables and will be filled in by the contestants.

It appears that the squash title will go uncontested to Tom Witter, unless some brave racqueteer wants to challenge him. The Volleyball stalwarts are filling in the chart in Stuart Hall and a Monday night co-ed league will be formed in a week or two. Please feel free to join in and bring your wife or girl friend or both.

The big news of the month is a preposed ski trip on the 13th of February. Please make your interest known by signing up in the Student Center or Stuart Hall. There will be special reduced rates depending on the number going.

women who have wept amid the ruins of their devasted chapels are finding joy and hope. A significant step has been taken towards racial reconciliation in Mississippi. As of January 5, $44,000 had been received, and Dr. Davis is convinced that sufficient funds will be raised to restore all 36 churches. He wants the Committee to function as a permanent communications link between Negro and white, even after its original purpose has been fulfilled.

In a letter of thanks to Princeton Seminary Dr. Davis says: "Contributions have come from every section of Mississippi, the United States, and from Canada, Mexico, Puerto Rico, and Switzerland. The smallest came from a five year old child—seven cents—and the largest from a Mississippi Baptist layman—$2,500.

"The Committee of Concern is interfaith and interracial . . . It is truly the action of a great fellowship.

"On behalf of the members of 36 burned Negro churches, I say thanks to the students and faculty of Princeton Theological Seminary for your generous contribution. . . . Please keep the Committee of Concern in your love and prayers. Tell your friends about our vastly important action."

McIntyre To Be Warfield Lecturer Next Week

John McIntyre, Professor of Divinity at the University of Edinburgh, will be the Annie Kinkead Warfield Lecturer at Princeton Seminary for 1965. He will deliver six lectures on "The Shape of Christology" during the week of February 8-12. Professor McIntyre will speak each evening, Monday through Friday, in Miller Chapel at 7:45 p.m. An additional lecture will be delivered at 2:00 p.m. on Wednesday, February 10.

A member of the University of Edinburgh since 1956, Professor McIntyre is the author of St. Anselm and His Critics, The Christian Doctrine of History, and On the Love of God. He has also published articles and reviews in various scholarly periodicals.

McIntyre was professor of Theology at St. Andrew's College of the University of Sydney from 1946 to 1956, serving also as the Principal of St. Andrew's for the last six years of his residence there. Prior to going to Sydney he was minister of the Church of Scotland congregation at Fenwick, and earlier of the parish of Glenorchy and Inishail.

The holder of both the M.A. and B.D. degrees from the University of Edinburgh, McIntyre won First Class Honors in Mental Philosophy as an undergraduate, and received his B.D. with distinction in Systematic Theology. Edinburgh awarded him the degree of D.Litt. in 1953, and he received an honorary D.D. from the University of Glasgow in 1961.

The Annie Kinkead Warfield Lectureship was established by a provision in the will of Dr. Benjamin B. Warfield, who was Professor of Systematic Theology at Princeton Seminary. According to the terms of the trust, the Warfield lecturer shall belong to the Reformed tradition in theology, and "the subject of the lectures shall in all cases be some doctrine or doctrines of the Reformed System of Doctrine."

All members and friends of the seminary community are invited to attend the lectures.

Three contests and twenty-two chances to win—read on! The first of these contests is one sponsored by The Lord's Day Alliance of the United States. For a research essay on the subject of "The Lord's Day: Its Biblical Background and Observance" you may win first prize of $300.00 Second prize of $200.00 and third prize of $100.00 are quite acceptable too, so dust off the typewriter ribbons and enter. Entries must be 2,000 or more words in length and must be typed double-spaced on one side of the paper only (not a carbon). Any second year seminary student preparing for the gospel ministry is eligible. Students submitting a manuscript must enclose a letter of recommendation from a member of the faculty with whom he has consulted in the preparation of his essay. Submit all entries to:

The Lord's Day Alliance
Of The United States
71 West 23rd Street
New York, New York, 10010

NOT LATER THAN APRIL 30, 1965

This also may be your chance for publication. Papers submitted will be considered for publication and if acceptable will be purchased by the Alliance at the usual religious magazine rates. The award essays become the sole property of the Lord's Day Alliance of the United States and its quarterly magazine. If you wish your manuscript returned it should be accompanied by a self-addressed stamped envelope.

A Committee selected by the Alliance will judge the papers for their historical accuracy, originality, style and contribution to the cause of the proper observance of the Lord's Day. This Committee's decision will be final. The Awards Committee reserves the right at their discretion to add to the number of awards, or to divide awards when necessary, or to make no award in the event of insubstantial entries. A Text Of Importance To All MARRIED Exegetes

"When upon divers occasions and in manifold places you have been put upon to extract your resting corpus from its rut, and when the prompting of 'good wife' becomes too heavy to bear; when in questionings oft you must answer, 'Dear, do you love me?', then arise, quicken your mortal frame and hasten to keep the bonds of matrimonial peace."

After Tomorrow

What's ahead in the way of speakers, programs, and special events in the second semester? An outstanding group of visitors will be coming to the campus to lecture and lead discussions on a variety of subjects. Social events, Easter recess, and reading period also will be highlights in the semester schedule. Here is THE WINESKIN'S preview of a few of the major events which have already been planned.

Governor Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey will give an informal address in the main lounge of the Campus Center on February 23. His visit will be sponsored by the Urban Project Group. On March 11 Dr. Werner Kummel of the Marburg University New Testament faculty will speak here at 1:30 p.m. Father R. de Vaux will be on campus for a March 22nd lecture. The third of the year's major lectureships, the Stone Lectures, are scheduled for April 20-23. The lecturer will be Dr. Hans-Joachim Kraus, Professor of Old Testament in the University of Hamburg.

There will be three extended chapel services during the semester. The first of these, next Wednesday, will be led by Dr. Theodore Park Ferris of Boston. The Reverend Chalmers Coe, minister of the First Congregational Church, Columbus, Ohio, will be the preacher on March 3. On April 28 the Reverend James F. Anderson, minister of First Presbyterian Church, Narberth, Pennsylvania will be in the Miller Chapel pulpit.

Highlights of the social program include the annual Mardi Gras on March 2 and four Friday night flicks. "Experiment in Terror" begins the series on February 26, and yet-to-be-named films will be shown on March 26, April 30, and May 14.

Other important dates include the annual Vocations Conference which will bring 250 college students to the campus the week end of March 5-7. The Easter recess is April 9-19, and second semester reading period will start on May 6. Final examinations begin May 20, and the General Examination period gets underway May 31. The red-letter days for Seniors are June 6, 7, and 8 which will be the Baccalaureate Service, Alumni Day, and Commencement Exercises.

Dr. Ferris To Preach At Extended Chapel On Wednesday

Dr. Theodore Park Ferris

Dr. Theodore Park Ferris, rector of Trinity Church, Boston, will be the preacher at an extended chapel service on Wednesday, Feb. 17, at 10:00 a.m. Dr. Ferris is widely known as a preacher and author.

The pulpit of Trinity Church in Boston was occupied by Phillips Brooks some seventy years ago. Dr. Ferris continues that distinguished tradition. He has been selected by Life magazine as one of ten outstanding preachers in the United States.

A native of Port Chester, New York, Dr. Ferris has degrees from Harvard College, General Theological Seminary, and he has received honorary degrees from several colleges and universities. Before going to Boston in 1942 he served churches in New York and Baltimore. He lectures on homiletics at the Episcopal Theological School in Cambridge and is the author of This Created World, Go Tell the People, The Story of Jesus, and When I Became a Man.

New York Organist To Present Miller Chapel Recital

On Tuesday, February 16, the internationally famous and gifted organist, Frederick Swann of New York City, will give a recital at Princeton Seminary. Frederick Swann is the Organist of The Riverside Church, one of the world's noted churches, and Director of Music and Organist of The Interchurch Center, both in New York City. He has played before thousands in church, civic and educational auditoriums throughout the United States, and islands of the South Pacific. Reviews such as the following have always accompanied his performances: "Frederick Swann has that gift which too many organists seem to lack these days: real musicality. Everything he plays turns into a convincing and moving musical experience."—Musical America. "Mr. Swann's playing is characterized by great clarity elegance of style, strength and a strong rhythmic impulse. His technical proficiency is immense."—Miami Herald.

A polished and artistic performer, Mr. Swann is also in much demand as an oratorio accompanist, a field in which he excels. His mastery of his instrument combined with his sensitive playing, full of color and variety, have led him to be called a "topflight organist of this country."

Mr. Swann holds a Bachelor of Music degree from Northwestern University in Evanston, Illinois, and a Master of Sacred Music from Union Theological Seminary in New York. His teachers have included some of the most distinguished organists of America and Europe.

Prior to his appointment as Organist of The Riverside Church, Mr. Swann served as Assistant Organist and Choirmaster at St. Bartholomew's Church, and Acting Organist and Choirmaster of Brick Presbyterian Church, both in New York City.

The recital will take place in Miller Chapel at Princeton Seminary, Tuesday, February 16, at 7:45 p.m. There is no admission charge.

"The Rivals" Opens New McCarter Season

One of the immortal creations of dramatic literature—Richard Brinsley Sheridan's Mrs. Malaprop—will return to McCarter Theatre for the second time in 35 years when "The Rivals" opens the 1965 Winter-Spring Drama Series on Saturday, February 20 at 8 p.m. The Sheridan play will be followed in repertory by four other European comedies: Aristophanes's "The Birds," Pirandello's "As You Desire Me," and a double-bill of Moliere's "School for Wives" and Chekhov's "The Marriage Proposal," plus a bonus production of Shakespeare's "Macbeth."

The season's opening night performance of "The Rivals" will celebrate the 35th anniversary of McCarter's opening on February 20, 1930. But there is still another coincidence in the selection of the Sheridan play, for "The Rivals" was also the first professional production ever to play the McCarter. The great Minnie Maddern Fiske, or simply Mrs. Fiske, as she was generally known, came to the then-new theatre as Mrs. Malaprop in March 1930, with her own traveling company of players. Sheridan's Mrs. Malaprop, who is characterized by her mistakes in the use of words, was so memorable a figure that she became one of the few stage characters to have a new noun in the English language named for her—"malapropism." Her remark to young Lydia that she is as "headstrong as an allegory on the banks of the Nile" is only one example of her dazzling misuse of words.

McCarter's Mrs. Malaprop for 1965 will be Ruby Holbrook, a veteran of past McCarter seasons including last spring's Shakespeare festival, where her roles ranged from the Nurse in "Romeo and Juliet" to the mad Queen Margaret in "Richard III." Another McCarter favorite, Clarence Felder, will be seen as Sir Lucius O'Trigger, Mrs. Malaprop's unwitting suitor, and the production will be directed by Mario Siletti. Complete subscription information for the entire Winter-Spring series is now available at the McCarter box office, and by mail or phone.

Three And A Half Rooms Down The Hall

THE WINESKIN and VIEWPOINT office has moved. The Student Publications Office has moved from Hodge 115 to Hodge 109 L. (the L. stands for 'turn left after entering 109'). This past week-end, your editorial staff carried used copy, rejected copy (we save almost anything), three paper clips, four calendars (one for each wall), blank paper, books (not blank), and the inevitable typewriter to new quarters.

The new office is a bit smaller, we'll admit, but that way all copy will be within reach. We started out with four chairs, decided the office was too cramped, added one, and got rid of one. Interior decorating then began (and will probably never be completed) and the furniture was moved around three times. It is now situated such that the closet is inaccessible but we wouldn't have used it anyway. To add to the challenge, we will acquire a filing cabinet next week. There is only one remaining place to put it—in the doorway—but that raises complications.

In actuality, the new publications office is through the Housing and Employment Office (the connection ends there). Please submit all future news items and announcements to Hodge 109 L.—and wave to the Housing and Employment staffs as you go by.

"Inter-Presbyterian" Vespers In New York

Representatives of 119 churches in the five boroughs of New York City, joined by delegates from Metropolitan Area Presbyteries and Presbyterials, will be the nucleus of a unique Vesper Service on Sunday, February 28, at 4:30 p.m. By Session invitation, it will be held in Fifth Avenue Church, New York Presbytery's largest sanctuary. Dr. Edler Hawkins and Dr. Felix Gear, Moderators of the two leading branches of American Presbyterianism, with 4,216,798 communicants, will strike the all-important note of "Commitment to Unity in Christ."

Eugene Callender, a past presbytery moderator and chairman of the special committee for this service, notes both its naturalness and urgency. "We have sent Edler Hawkins, one of our own pastors, for a year in the highest post our denomination offers. We cheered his appeal to the 'U.S.' Presbyterians for greater solidarity with us. We were stirred by the joint 'Call for National Unity' he read to the January Congressional Communion in behalf of the six Presbyterian Moderators. We encourage him to work his head off and his heart out in behalf of unity, local and worldwide, national and ecumenical. Let's back him up by our prayers and by the spirit in which we come to worship with him and Dr. Gear."

Local Unity, Too

The service extends its unifying appeal to the grassroots. Elders with their pastors, led by a combined choir, will jointly form the processional and will sit together for common re-commitment as Sessions.

Presbyterians from the surrounding communities have received special invitations to share this fellowship. The doors are open, too, to any others who yearn for closer ties between all Presbyterians as between all Christians. "For," the committee declares, "only by oneness in mission can we make an impact for Christ on this sprawling, disjointed, exciting, impersonal, secularized Metropolitan Area we live in and love."

Rev. Ost To Speak On Parks Summer Program

The Reverend Warren Ost director of the Christian ministry in the national parks summer program will speak and present slides at dinner to be held Wednesday, February 24 in the Faculty Dining Room of the Campus Center. Students interested in this excellent summer program should plan to attend the dinner and schedule an interview with Mr. Ost.

Dinner will begin at 6:00 p.m. Charges are $.25 for boarders and $1.75 for non-boarders. Sign up sheets for the dinner are posted on the bulletin board outside the Field Education Office, 101 Hodge Hall, and in Stuart Hall.

Annual Choir Banquet Set For Tuesday

Present and former members of the seminary's Touring Choir will gather for the annual banquet next Tuesday evening, February 23, at 6:00 p.m. on the Campus Center verandah. The highlight of the evening will be a mid-winter re-creation of last summer's Caribbean tour as the color slides of the traveling singers are shown. The tour included a week at the meeting of the United Presbyterian Women at Purdue University, as well as services and appearances in Central and South America and several Caribbean islands. Choir members should circle this red-letter date on their calendars.

LOST

The RSV pulpit Bible is missing from Miller Chapel. Since it is of a handy size, in all probability someone has taken it inadvertently and mistaken it for his own. It is leather bound and has MILLER CHAPEL stamped in gold on the front cover.

This is a memorial gift and we are anxious therefore that it not be lost permanently. Will all students search their shelves and/or keep their eyes open for it in the lounges or study rooms?

Chapel Deacons

Service Of Dedication Scheduled For Second Presbyterian Church

At 11 a.m. on Sunday, February 21, Second Presbyterian Church of Princeton will hold a service of doubly historic significance: the changing of its name and the rededication of its completely refurbished sanctuary.

The name "St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church" was chosen by the congregation as being much more fitting and meaningful than "Second" inasmuch as many Scottish members have been a part of the church's ministry over the years, and it also reminds one of that concerned and effective disciple who introduced Peter to Jesus and was an example of outreach and concern which it behooves all Christians to follow.

The changes in the sanctuary are only the second ones of a major structural nature in the 97-year history of the present edifice. The first such changes consisted of the moving of the organ from the rear of the sanctuary to the front and the removal of the balcony in 1911.

Assisting the minister, the Rev. F. Hugh Liffiton, in the service will be the Rev. Dr. William L. Tucker, minister emeritus, and the Rev. David L. Crawford, the only living past ministers of the church. Special music planned for the service includes the St. Anne Fugue of Bach as organ prelude, Pucell's Trumpet Voluntary in a special arrangement for organ and handbells, Psalm 150 by Cesar Franck sung by the choir, Bach's Air from the Suite in D with Mr. Carroll George as violin soloist and, as organ postlude, the Sinfonia from Bach's cantata "Now Thank We God."

All members of the seminary family are cordially invited to attend this service and stay for the Fellowship Coffee Hour immediately afterward in the Social Room of the church.

New Jersey Governor to Speak Here Tuesday

Richard J Hughes

Some people are still surprised to learn that the Governor of New Jersey does not live in Trenton, the state capital, but in the recently renovated Princeton mansion, Morven. For those of you who, in the pursuit of exercise, walk down Stockton Street past Morven whistling "I Wonder What The King Is Doing Tonight," the following information will be of interest.

The present Governor is the Honorable Richard J. Hughes, born on August 10, 1909 and inaugurated for a four-year term in 1962. Hughes was first introduced to politics by his father, Richard P. Hughes, a reforming Democrat of the Wilson era. (Woodrow Wilson was Governor of New Jersey prior to his election to the Presidency.) The elder Hughes served both as Mayor of Burlington and as a member of the State Civil Service Commission. In 1931, Governor Hughes graduated from the Rutgers University School of Law and started practicing law in Trenton. At the age of 30 he was named Assistant United States Attorney for New Jersey, serving for six years as a prosecutor of Federal cases and administering such wartime measures as the Enemy Alien Act.

Governor Hughes To Be Speaker

With the end of the war, Richard J. Hughes accepted the position as Democratic chairman of Mercer County, playing a key role in the political transformation of a county which was once a Republican stronghold. It is now solidly Democratic. Republican Governor Alfred E. Driscoll appointed the future Governor as Mercer County Judge in 1948. While on the bench, he deepened his interest in juvenile problems and won recognition for his knowledge of various probation systems.

Judge Hughes was elevated to the Superior Court of New Jersey in 1952 by Governor Driscoll, and Chief Justice Vanderbilt named him chairman of the Supreme Court's Committee on Juvenile and Domestic Relations Courts. In a two-year study, this committee produced a report that is serving as the basis for New Jersey's progressive attitudes and actions in handling juvenile offenders. In 1957, Judge Hughes was named to the Appellate Division, the second highest court in the state; here he served until returning to private practice. (The Hughes family then numbered nine children.)

This interval of private life ended with his selection as the Democratic candidate for Governor in 1961. With the backing of John F. Kennedy, Hughes, a comparatively unknown figure, conducted one of the hardest fought political campaigns in the history of the state, and won an upset victory over the late James P. Mitchell, former United States Secretary of Labor in the Eisenhower Administration. The magin of victory was only 41,000 votes.

Governor Hughes' major achievements include the improvement of commuter transportation, a curbing of waterfront racketeering, passage of bills for a statewide community college program, the control of billboards along State highways, creation of the Atlantic City Expressway and a tightening on air pollution control. He gained national recognition for his direction of the restoration of the New Jersey shore area after it was ravaged by a disastrous storm in March 1962. He was also instrumental in bringing the 1964 Democratic National Convention to Atlantic City.

New Jersey, one of the two states without a sales or personal income tax, has been heading for a financial crisis for several years now. In 1963, Governor Hughes proposed a program to raise $750 million through the sale of bonds to be repaid from surplus revenues of the New Jersey Turnpike. Stiff opposition on the part of those who supported a broad-based tax and by the State Republican Party contributed to the proposal's defeat at the polls. Early in 1964, with the financial crisis still unresolved, the Governor took a great political risk and proposed a personal income tax, but the Republican Legislative majority turned it down. Hence New Jersey is still seeking a way to finance the needed improvements in education, institutions and highways.

The Executive and Legislative branches of the State Government are presently attempting to carry out a reapportionment of the State Senate and Assembly. This too has become a major political "tug-of-war" between the Democratic Governor and the Republican Legislature.

With some of these facts in mind, it is hoped that of the Princeton Seminary community can come to know, understand and appreciate the man who will visit on February 23. Governor Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey.

Friday Flick Fare

A suspense thriller, a musical, a drama and a comedy will make up the second semester screen series. A classic in suspense, "Experiment in Terror" is the first of the films and will be shown Friday, February 26 at 7:15 p.m. in the Campus Center Auditorium. Starring Glenn Ford, Lee Remick, and Stephanie Powers, "Experiment in Terror" is the electrifying drama of a psychopathic killer's campaign of terror against a pretty bank teller and her sister. The killer's aim is to have the girl embezzle $100,000 from the bank and turn it over to him. Despite his warning, the girl contacts the F.B.I. In cooperation with the police, the painstaking task of tracking the killer and protecting the two sisters ensues. The story rushes through some of San Francisco's more picturesque byways including Chinatown and Fisherman's Wharf. In Candlestick Park, home of the baseball Giants, victim, killer and police meet in one of the most thrilling sequences ever filmed.

"Pal Joey" will be coming up on Friday, March 26, and "Suddenly Last Summer" will be the film for Friday, April 30. The last film is "The Notorious Landlady," and it will be shown on Friday, May 14.

Single admissions for each flick will be 50¢. Series tickets for single students will be $1.50. Series tickets for couples (male-female type) will be $2.00.

Why The Governor Was Invited To Speak

by Bob Stoddard

If the "war on poverty" is to be won in this country, the decisive battles will be waged in and around our large metropolitan areas, for there the enemy's concentration is greatest. The urban church which has refused to retreat now finds itself in the midst of the struggle, seeking to serve the real needs of real people, seeking to justify its existence. The city church can survive only if it learns to function within the existing social orders, cooperating with and attempting to influence those who make public decisions.

Every weekend forty Princeton seminarians travel to various churches in New York, Newark, New Brunswick, Trenton, Philadelphia, Camden and Wilmington, where they experience first hand the challenges of the urban ministry. When these participants in the Urban Project met as a group last fall, it was suggested that efforts be made to bring to campus representatives of the economic, social and political forces which have so great a bearing on the inner city situation.

Because many local decisions and actions are determined at the level of state government, it was thought appropriate that the Governor of New Jersey, the Honorable Richard J. Hughes, be invited to come and discuss the subject: "State Government and City Problems." The invitation was extended in late November, after the election. The Governor accepted and replied that he could be here on February 23, at 7:45 p.m. The meeting has since been opened up to the entire seminary community and will be held in the Campus Center Lounge.

Book Catalogs Available

Catalogs of books on theology and religion which are supplied through James Thin of Edinburgh are available for the asking in the Theological Book Agency. A new listing of religious paperbacks from James Thin has also been received. These catalogs may be picked up at the cashier's desk in the Book Agency.

The Kiosk

A recent pamphlet on the Seminary's urban project points out our strategic location within the New York-Philadelphia metropolitan area. A less publicized benefit of our Sitz im leben is the availability of the Fine Arts in such profusion as few of us will again find on our doorsteps. To be sure, other duties usually keep us from being devoted patrons of culture, but occasionally the iron rule of our scholarly natures succumbs to our rebellious esthetic urges.

Unfortunately, however, the vague desire to "see a play" or "do the gallaries" often disintegrates for lack of guidance and awareness of happenings in the Fine Arts. If you don't know that that run-down doorway in the dime store section of Madison Avenue led to a display of original Picassos, you'd probably never see that awesome exhibit. And while we spend time and money for Funny Girl or Hello Dolly tickets, we are unaware of the free performances of plays by Ibsen and others in Greenwich Village. These performances are excellent theatre and the fact that they are by fielding actors in makeshift theatres adds freshness.

Why not pass on your experiences in the Fine Arts and let us know what does or does not deserve to be seen and heard? This column appears with an invitation to our readers to use it as a means of sharing your appraisals of films, plays, concerts, and exhibits. Comments will be welcomed concerning events which appears in series, i.e. opportunities with a future. Voice your "tips" to Blair Moffett or The Wineskin staff.

Seminarians Invited To New York City Service

A special "inter-Presbyterian" vesper service will be held in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church in Manhattan on Sunday, February 28, at 4:30 p.m. Dr. Felix B. Gear, Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, and Dr. Edler G. Hawkins, Moderator of the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, will share the pulpit. Both men have been guests on the seminary campus during the first semester. The service is sponsored by the Presbytery of New York City. Seminarians whose field education posts are in the metropolitan area will want to make plans for their churches to share in this unique experience.

New Albee Play Reviewed By Moffett

by Blair Moffett

Edward Albee has done it again, but no one is quite sure what. Those who first reviewed Tiny Alice spoke none too kindly of the enigma they had witnessed. Albee, his reputation still unsure, stood precariously on the brink of being written off as an angry young man with nothing to say. Tiny Alice weathered the initial reactions well, and went on to receive more distinguished honors. Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf established Albee as a master of dialogue, and Tiny Alice adds to the evidence. The first scene, a barbed repartee between the Cardinal and the lawyer, contains lines reminiscent of Shakespeare's in their rhythm.

The critical question concerns the meaning and intent of the play. What is Albee trying to say? Or is he trying to say anything at all? Quite obviously, he is critical of the Church. This criticism, however, seems to be superficial and secondary to a greater theme. He presents a baffling drama of supernatural allusions in which the Church seems to have only a bit part.

Any explanation of the play in terms of the metaphysics displayed by Mr. Albee is doomed, for he has made no effort to define or describe. More properly, the focal point of meaning is Julian, the lay brother around whom the action moves. The other characters appear to be an illusory combination of human and superhuman engaged in a conspiracy to make Julian "accept" his totally incomprehensible s i t u a t i o n. Julian, on the other hand, is believably human. He is a man of faith and integrity whose dreams are more self-sacrificing than heroic. As the play proceeds, Julian becomes involved in an ever more confusing complex of forces which finally leaves him to use his last breath in a bewildered cry, "Alice . . . God . . . Why have you forsaken me?"

Mr. Albee has refused to explain the meaning of the play, even to the actors. It may be his hope that the viewer will identify himself with Julian and take upon himself the baffling questions about his existence. In any case, it is far more profitable to seek questions than answers from Tiny Alice.

Technically, Tiny Alice is excellently done. Sir John Gielgud is indeed a joy to see, and the rest of the cast maintains a high level performance. The three sets are excellent.

The nature of Tiny Alice demands some previous orientation for full appreciation. The January 30, 1965 issue of Saturday Review contains a fine review with additional comments by a Psychiatrist. Tickets should be available by mail at the Billy Rose Theatre Box Office on several days advance for a week night. Week end tickets are doubtless harder to get.

First Rubinstein Recital Nears Sellout

The first Princeton recital by pianist Artur Rubinstein at Princeton University's Dillon Gymnasium on Tuesday, February 23 at 8:30 p.m., is very near to being a complete sell-out, although a spokesman for McCarter Theatre (which is presenting the concert) added that there were still some end stand tickets remaining.

The 76-year-old pianist recently performed the first of four sold-out New York recitals at Carnegie Hall, causing the New York Times to comment: "It should be enough to say that Artur Rubinstein played at Carnegie Hall last night. The phenomenon of the pianist's seemingly inexhaustible energy, intellectual control, warm-blooded musicality, robust tone, and fastidious taste have been noted time and again during a 67-year career. If anything, this master's playing grows more refined. He has gone to the heart of the music, and his instrument and his playing are the essence of both."

Mr. Rubinstein will open his recital with Schubert's Grand Sonata No. 3 in B flat Major (the "opus posthumous" sonata), followed by three works of Brahms: the Rhapsody in G Minor, op. 79, the Capriccio, op. 76, and the Rhapsody in E flat Major, op. 119.

Following intermission, Mr. Rubinstein will perform Ravel's "Valses nobles et sentimentales," and will conclude his program with a Chopin group. The remaining tickets for his Dillion Gym recital are on sale at the McCarter Theatre box office.

St. Andrew's Church To Rededicate Sanctuary At Sunday Morning Service

A service of rededication of the refurbished sanctuary of St. Andrew's (formerly Second) Presbyterian Church will be held at 11:00 a.m. Sunday, February 21. The Session of the church has extended a cordial invitation to members of the seminary community to join with the St. Andrew's congregation for this special service.

by Ken Parker

The B-ball season is now in its final half, and the league has taken on fairly definite shape. Last week the bewildered, broken, and bruised Off-campus team managed to scrape only four players together and thus lost a game to league-leading Brown Hall by forfeit. Any off-campus men who are bathing in college or high school laurels, come on out and give this team a hand. It needs it! In the second game Alex squeezed by Hodge in a contest that saw three points mark the margin of difference most of the way. The league will run through once more before the season ends.

The Varsity boys ran into hard luck against Union and went down to their first defeat by three points. However, things are looking up, since they followed this with a huge victory over Drew Seminary. The team has been led by shifty Ken Graham, who has been overcoming his lack of ability by perseverance, drive, and sheer determination to lead the team in scoring with over twenty points per game. The Wagner flash and company will get a good test this Friday (today) against the Princeton University JV team. This should be a good game to come and watch. It will be played in the seminary gym.

VOLLEYBALL: For all those interested, a co-ed volleyball league will be formed this coming Monday, February 23. There has been a great deal of interest, and a lot of people signed the sheets in Stuart Hall. Therefore we will be meeting at 8:00 p.m. in the gym this Monday to form teams and play the first game.

TABLE TENNIS: The tournament is set up in the basement of the Student Center.

HANDBALL: A tournament is being formed on the basis of the FOUR people that signed up. If there is further interest, please contact me by phone or letter.

The skiing trip is pending snow. That's it for another week.

Organists Announced For Thursday Afternoon Recitals

Mrs. Joan Lippincott, a special student at the seminary, will give the Thursday half-hour organ recital in Miller Chapel on February 25 at 1:35 p.m. She is a doctoral candidate at Union Theological Seminary in New York City and a member of the staff of Westminster Choir College. She has played recitals in many cities throughout the country.

Organists who will present recitals during the remainder of the semester have been announced this week. Mrs. Lippincott will play again on March 4. On March 11 Garnell Copeland will be the organist, and William Brun will perform on March 18. Later in the semester John Tuttle, Michael Korn, and Peter Brown will return to the recently dedicated Moller console. Gale Enger will give three recitals in April, and Arnold Ostlund and Irene Willis will play after the Easter recess.

The organ, given in memory of Isabelle McClure Peltier by The First Presbyterian Church of Fort Wayne, Indiana, was installed in Miller Chapel during the summer of 1964.

Reading Room Hours

The Charles G. Reigner Education Reading Room, in the Education Building at 100 Stockton Street, has announced its hours for the second semester.

1:30 - 5:00 p.m.—Monday through Friday
7:00 - 9:00—Monday and Wednesday
10:00 - 11:00 a.m.—Saturday

All materials are available for examination and use in the Reading Room and may be checked out for one day or a weekend, especially for use in field education responsibilities. Audio-visal materials or any items in the Reading Room may be reserved in advance. A librarian is present whenever the room is open to check out materials, to give assistance in finding information and materials, and to demonstrate the operation of equipment on request.

Library Inspections

The inspection of books and briefcases at the exit from Speer Library is designed to assist the staff in keeping accurate records of books charged out, and to prevent errors that might inconvenience the users of the library. Since this is a normal procedure widely used to improve library services, the co-operation of students and visitors is invited. If the attendants at the desk are busy when you pass the loan desk, please wait until the staff has time to check your books and briefcases.

PRINCETON THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY • FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 26, 1965 • VOL. 2 • No. 4

An Open Letter

Dear Students:

In just one week we will welcome to the campus a large group of college and university students who are considering some form of ministry as their career. Some of these students are already committed to such a ministry, and desire to know more about seminary life and theological education in general. Others wonder if the ministry is a worthwhile career in which to invest their lives, or if the church has anything to all to say to modern society.

An exciting program has been arranged for them, and members of the Seminary community have been invited to take part. But the most important events of the Vocations Conference take place apart from the schedule, in dormitory rooms and around the dining hall tables. College students writing back after such a conference generally agree that contacts with Princeton Seminary students were the most valuable aspect of the 48-hour period.

We hope you will be alert to the presence of this large group of visitors. We still need a few more spaces in which to set up cots, despite the great degree of cooperation already expressed by our students. If you are willing to have a visitor in your room, and have not let us know, please do so as soon as possible.

Most important of all, try to plan your own weekend so as to provide a little time to become acquainted with these students. They will want to know why you are here, why you are set on the ministry. Your answers may help them reach answers as they work towards a decision about the ministry.

James E. Andrews
Assistant to the President

In Memoriam

Dr. Johannes Munck
Died February 23, 1965

The Seminary community extends its heartfelt sympathy to Mrs. Munck and the family and gives thanks to God for the life of this Christian scholar and gentleman.

Shrove Tuesday Is Coming!

The French translate Mardi Gras in two ways: fat Tuesday or the day of carnival. But why pick one translation when you can use both? Such will be the case on Tuesday, March 2, when Princeton Seminary celebrates Mardi Gras in the Campus Center with a special dinner and dance.

The buffet dinner will begin at 5:30 p.m. and the New Orleans menu includes shrimp cocktail, steamboat roast, Spanish rice, peas and pimentos, cafe au lait, and more. Mixed in with this 'fat Tuesday' celebration is the carnival—for all are encouraged to come in costumes. Come as a riverboat or come as Mark Twain, come as a ghoul or come as Gabriel, but come in costume! There will be special prizes for categories yet to be disclosed.

The Mardi Gras celebration will continue with dancing after dinner. We don't guarantee dancing on top of the tables as in (ahem) previous years (but we don't deny it either). Two Mexican pinatas wait to be smashed in the course of the evening and who knows what goodies they'll divulge! Remember fun, food, dancing and costumes . . . don't let Mardi Gras go by without the proper festivities!

COEMAR Representative Will Visit Tuesday

On Tuesday, March 2nd, the Rev. Mr. Donald P. Smith will visit the campus to interview seniors and middlers, as well as any interested Juniors, who would be interested in overseas service with the Commission on Ecumenical Mission and Relations of the United Presbyterian Church, (C.O.E.M.A.R.).

Mr. Byers is arranging for Mr. Smith to be available at 1:45 p.m. in the campus center main lounge to speak with students seeking overseas appointments now or in the future. He will also be available for half-hour interviews for those who want to have personal interviews. If you are interested in finding out more about the work of C.O.E.M.A.R. stop by Mr. Byer's office to make an appointment to see Rev. Smith.

Niles, Spike, and Homrighausen to Speak At Two-Day Conference

Princeton, N. J., Feb. 23 — Asia's leading Christian spokesman, the head of the National Council of Church's program in race relations, and the Dean of Princeton Theological Seminary are the main speakers for a two-day Conference on Church Vocations opening Friday, March 5, at Princeton Theological Seminary.

250 college and university students are expected to take part in the conference, held each year to provide undergraduates with increased insight into the nature and variety of careers available within the Church, and in church-related fields.

D. T. Niles, general secretary of the East Asia Christian Conference since that body's formation in 1957, will open the conference with an address on "What is the Church For?" at 7:30 p.m., Friday, March 5.

At 9:00 a.m., the following morning, Saturday, March 6, Dr. Robert W. Spike, Executive Director of the Commission on Religion and Race of the National Council of Churches, will speak on "What is the Church Doing?"

The final address to the group will be the sermon by Seminary Dean E. G. Homrighausen at the 11:00 a.m., Sunday, March 7, communion service.

Students come from points as distant as Arizona, the Great Lake States, and California to attend the annual session. The conference is planned to give primary emphasis to small group discussion that follow the major lectures, as well as Saturday evening coffee hours following the showing of "The Parable," a contemporary film originally produced for the Protestant Pavilion at the New York World's Fair.

Participation in the events of the Vocations Conference is open to the members of the Seminary community. The following Conference-wide programs are especially of interest to Princeton faculty, staff and students:

by Ken Parker

The sports world was alive last week as undefeated Brown kept up its winning ways by dumping Hodge by ten points. Al Reutter paced the winners to their fourth win and thus clinching the basketball title and the trophy. If the competition improves a post season tourney will be created.

In the consolation match Alex secured its second win and thus climbed out of the cellar by snatchings a closed forfeit victory from the Off-Campus team 2-0.

The varsity boys thrilled a standing room only crowd at our gym on Friday night. Ken Graham and Warren Lee lead them to a close 74-69 loss to the University JV's. Big Rick Thyne was hampered by a score elbow that limited him to 60-foot one handers. Interviewed in the locker room after the game, Rick was asked by our reporter if he thought he shot too much. The Gunner replied, "I am careful only to shoot when I have the ball."

On the docket for further Varsity action are two games in March with New York City Young Lifers. These should be excellent games to come and watch. For those of you who are in a theological quandry, come out and vent your frustrations through the avenues of cheering in the P.T.S. vs. Faith Seminary.

Ping Pong advocates—get busy on your tournament. It's posted in the basement of the Student Center.

One last reminder: Volleyball is being played every Monday evening at 8 p.m. —co-ed—come on down, the playing's great.

Gallery 100

The Kiosk

by Blair Moffett

"Would that I had more time," quoth he. "What would you do with it," says I? Good question. Most of us have little time to indulge our cultural appetites, so look sharp. Make the most of the time you have by keeping in touch with what's available. While you're at it, why not share your appraisals of films, plays, concerts, and exhibits. Drop your comments gently in my ear, and I'll pass them on through this column.

On your way down Nassau Street, treat yourself to a stop at Gallery 100. Mrs. Frederick Adams tours extensively, staying on the look-out for exciting things in Graphics. Because this art form permits more than one copy of each piece, Mrs. Adams has been able to exhibit prints by some of the foremost American artists.

The current exhibit features works by Gregorio Prestopino. His subject matter as well as his stark clarity show the influence of his Manhattan origin. Through the mediums of oil and serigraph the artist has revealed a sensitivity to people as well as design. The oils hung in this exhibit have a "poster" quality which makes them somewhat less pleasing than the prints. In addition to this one-man show, Gallery 100 also stocks prints by a variety of artists.

Mrs. Adams emphasized that the Gallery's exhibitions, which change every three weeks, are cordially open to those who appreciate as well as to those who buy. Information about the artists is posted with each exhibit. Further details may be gleaned from the "little black book" containing biographical notes and comments.

In the Klieg light and grease paint domain, the tip of the week goes to the McCarter Theatre production of Sheridan's The Rivals. Reports on the dress rehearsal promise a cleverly produced performance of this delightful social comedy. This may be sufficient basis for a wild guess that the 1965 Winter-Spring Drama Series may be worth seeing.

Hawkins and Gear to Speak At Fifth Avenue Church

Presbyterian unity will be the theme of a special vesper service at 4:30 p.m. on Sunday, February 28 at Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church in New York City. Dr. Edler G. Hawkins and Dr. Felix B. Gear, moderators of the two largest Presbyterian bodies in this country, will speak. Representatives of the 119 Presbyterian churches in the five boroughs will be present along with other interested persons from the Metropolitan Area. All members of the Princeton Seminary community are invited to share in this service.

Evangelistic Fellowship Planning Spring Weekends

The annual spring conferences for Senior High young people sponsored by the Evangelistic Fellowship will be held on Saturday, April 3 and 24. As many as three hundred young people are expected each weekend from the New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania area. The conference committee, headed by Dick Kimbrough, invite all students of the seminary to invite their youth groups to the seminary for this event.

Leach and Barnhouse to Speak

The conferences will convene at 10:00 a.m. and will include worship, recreation, lunch, a theme speaker, a tour of Princeton and opportunities to see our campus and meet seminarians. The theme speaker on April 3 will be Bart Leach. Bart is a P.T.S. graduate and a former All-Ivy league forward at the University of Pennslyvania. He is currently a pastor at Oceanside, Long Island and is a frequent youth speaker. CBS news-analyst Donald Barnhouse will be the April 24 speaker. Don is also a P.T.S. alumnus, a former prep school teacher, a one time member of the Billy Graham team, and a world traveler. He is a speaker of considerable demand in the Philadelphia area and is uniquely challenging to young people.

Further details for the conferences are still in the planning stage. However, publicity and pre-registration materials are to be mailed shortly. All students interested in inviting the young people of their church should contact Dick Kimbrough or any member or officer of the Evangelistic Fellowship.

Organ Program Announced

Joan Lippincott will be the organist for the Thursday afternoon recital from 1:35 p.m. to 2:05 p.m. on March 4. The program will include Prelude, Fugue, and Chaconne by Dietrich Buxtehude, three Chorale Preludes by J. S. Brahms and Sonata I by Paul Hindemith.

James S. Bennett to Speak At Jewish Center

James S. Bennett, of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, will speak on "Danger on the Right" Thursday evening, March 4, at 8:45 p.m. The meeting, which is sponsored by the Princeton Jewish Center and B'nai B'rith Women of Princeton, will be held at the Center, 435 Nassau Street. All are welcome.

Book Of The Week

Beginning this week, THE WINESKIN will preview the book of the week which will be featured on sale at the Theological Book Agency. The editors thank Walter Williams for contributing these previews.

Roger L. Shinn, Tangled World, Charles Scribner's Sons: N. Y., 1965, paperback, 158 pages.

The author is Professor of Applied Christianity at Union Theological Seminary and Adjunct Professor of Religion at Columbia University.

This book describes several areas of modern life in which our changing world demands decisions both of persons and our entire society. It is based on a series of television programs sponsored by the United Church of Christ and bearing the same title as the book.

Examples of the topics covered are the following:

A World on the Move
Poverty in the Midst of Plenty
Revolution in Sexual Ethics
Metropolitan Society
Law in a Changing Society
The Organized Society

Ohio Minister To Speak At Extended Chapel

The Reverend Chalmers Coe, minister of the First Congregational Church of Columbus, Ohio will preach at an extended chapel service, Wednesday, March 3, at 10:00 a.m.

Mr. Coe has served churches in Connecticut and Massachusetts and was an Associate Professor Homiletics at Hartford Theological Seminary from 1956 to 1960. He holds both the A.B. and B.D. degrees from Yale University Divinity School. His father, Albert Buckner Coe, was Moderator of the Congregational General Council from 1954 to 1956.

The Columbus church called Mr. Coe as pastor in 1960. He has served as Lecturer in Pastoral Theology at Yale University Divinity School in 1955, Member of the Commission on Worship, United Church of Christ since 1960, and Member of the Commission on Confimation and Church Membership, United Church of Christ since 1960.

— Discount On Robes —

Dennis Tarr, Princeton Representative for Bentley & Simon, has announced that a 5% discount will be given to any student or professor who places an order during the showing of Bentley & Simon Pulpit and Academic Robes in Stevenson Lounge on Wednesday, March 3, 10:30 a.m.-5:00 p.m. Among the wide variety of robes and clerical vestments on display will be the Princeton Seminary Bachelor of Divinity Hood. All students and faculty are invited to the showing.

The Wineskin and You

The editors of THE WINESKIN thank the members of the seminary community for their interest and cooperation in "getting the news out" each week. We hope to preview coming events, introduce visitors to the campus, and keep you generally informed about what's happening at Princeton Seminary. In addition we attempt to inform you about some of the things to see and do in and around Princeton.

No one of us knows all the news. We depend on each of you to let us know what others should know. All students and faculty are encouraged to use this publication as a means of promotion and announcement. Every reader is a member of the staff of THE WINESKIN, ex officio.

We would like to have your announcements and stories by the Friday preceding publication. The absolute deadline is noon on Monday. Don't forget that our new office is 109 Hodge Hall. And thank you again.

Attention Californians and Would-Be Californians

On March 15 and 16, Dr. Karl J. Christ, Chairman of the Committee on Care and Oversight of Candidates for the Presbytery of Los Angeles will be on campus for his annual visit. He desires to meet all candidates under care of Los Angeles Presbytery for half hour appointments.

All candidates under care of Los Angeles Presbytery are requested to come to Room 16 in the Administration Building and sign up for an appointment with Mr. Christ on one of these two days. Appointments will be possible during the evening hours. There will also be opportunity for SENIORS who desire to be considered for positions in the Presbytery of Los Angeles to meet with Dr. Christ. They are also requested to sign up in Room 16 where a pink sheet will be specially posted for this purpose. Candidates from Los Angeles will have priority in Mr. Christ's schedule, but as many others as can be accommodated will be invited to interview with him also.

The place of meeting will be posted in Room 16 of the Administration Building.

Opening speaker Niles, who preached the opening sermon of the 1948 meeting in Amsterdam where the World Council of Churches came into being, is chairman of the North District of the Methodist Church in Ceylon. He is a frequent lecturer in colleges, universities and theological facilities, and is a former chairman of the World's Student Christian Federation.

The author of numerous books, including Sir, I Would See Jesus and Upon the Earth, Niles has been called the best preacher to students of this generation.

Robert W. Spike headed the Board of Homeland Ministries of the United Church of Christ before going to lead the National Council's effort to enlist the full weight of the nations' Protestant and Orthodox churches in the struggle for racial justice.

Spike had previously been named to the executive committee of the Division of Home Missions of the National Council of Churches, and is chairman of the Council's Committee on A Christian Ministry in the National Parks.

Formerly the minister of Judson Memorial Church on Manhattan's Washington Square, Spike is considered a pioneer in relating Christianity to modern culture.

Dean of Princeton Theological Seminary since 1955, E. G. Homrighausen joined the Seminary's faculty in 1938 after fourteen years as minister of congregations in Illinois and Indiana. Author of several volumes, including the well-known Let the Church be the Church, and one of the first to translate the works of Swiss theologian Karl Barth into English, Homrighausen has travelled widely in connection with lecture responsibilities, preaching missions, and ecumenical assignments.

FRIDAY, MARCH 5, 1965 • VOL. 2 • NO. 5

Homrighausen, Spike Niles To Speak

Two hundred-fifty students from colleges and universities across the nation will gather on the Princeton Seminary campus this weekend for the annual Princeton Conference on Church Vocations. A series of meetings and discussions with church leaders, seminary faculty members and students, and specialists in many areas of the church's life will enable the conference delegates to consider the possibility of a career in the service of the church.

Dr. D. T. Niles, Dr. Robert W. Spike, and Dean E. G. Homrighausen will be the featured speakers during the conference. Dr. Niles, a leader in the ecumenical church will address the opening session Friday evening at 7:30. His topic is "What Is the Church For?" At 9:00 a.m. on Saturday, Dr. Spike, who is Executive Director of the Commission on Religion and Race of the National Council of Churches, will speak on "What Is the Church Doing?" Dean Homrighausen will preach at the 11:00 a.m. Sunday communion service.

The film "Parable," which has been a feature of the Protestant and Orthodox Pavilion at the New York World's Fair, will be shown Saturday evening at 7:00 p.m. Throughout the weekend the delegates will have opportunities to talk with persons who are actively involved in various special ministries of the church. Informal coffee hours will offer a chance to share and reflect.

James E. Andrews, Assistant to the President, will serve as director of the conference. His secretary, Mrs. John E. Roberts, is conference secretary. Many of the details of preparing for the weekend have been handled by J. Randall Nichols and David B. Riddle.

VOCATUS SUM?

J. Randall Nichols

Too few have stopped to realize that a "church vocation" and a "Christian calling" are the same thing. Many of us consider, for example, the forthcoming Vocations Conference to be something like a job-counseling session. That is an error that must be corrected if this Conference is to succeed.

For many conferees this weekend, the few days at Princeton will be their first systematic thinking through of the possibility that God is calling them into his professional service. Once this thinking process begins the man who has not so much begun it as become possessed by it can never stop it. He can never rest secure in saying "I am called," but will rather ask for the rest of his days "Am I called?"

A young critic of mine, viewing the ordained ministry from the vantage point of three years in life, was told recently that I am going to be a minister. His remark was, "Oh, Randy is going to turn into a minister!" And then after a moment's reflection, "And when he is through being a minister, will he turn back into Randy?" A good question. It makes the ministry a restless, uneasy life. As one feels God continually calling he also feels the unrelenting pressure of continually having to answer.

We welcome, then, the young conferees as proselytes in the fraternity of the questioned. Let us not think we have answered God's call purely by dint of being seminarians. This Conference is nearer to being our initial consideration of the Christian calling than we might want to admit.

The significance, durability, and vitality of our various "calls" is to a large extent known by reflection in the lives of others similarly constrained. We welcome these people, and join them.

This is a time for thinking about theological education in its broadest meaning. It is time to consider whether our present activities are decent answers to God's question, and more, to ours, "Am I called?" Our enthusiastic participation in one effort, the Vocations Conference, is an element of this consideration, and a participation in the confraterity of the called. Now that we have "turned into ministers" it is our only Christian fellowship.

German New Testament Scholar To Speak Here

Werner Kuemmel

Professor Werner Kuemmel of the University of Marburg will speak at 1:30 p.m., Thursday, March 11, at Princeton Theological Seminary on "Jesus and the Future."

Professor Kuemmel, who succeeded Rudolph Bultmann in the New Testament chair at Marburg, is currently engaged in his second extensive U.S. lecture tour. The address at Princeton Seminary, which will be given in the Main Lounge of the Campus Center, is open to the public.

Educated at the Universities of Berlin, Marburg and Heidelberg, Kuemmel took his Doctor of Theology degree at the last named institution in 1929. In 1932 he joined the faculty of the University of Zurich, where he taught until going to Marburg in 1952.

His publications include the recent Das Neue Testament—Geschichte der Erforschung seiner Probleme, as well as a long list of early volumes such as Die Eschataologie der Evangeliem, Kirchenbegriff und Geschichtsbewusstsein und bei Jesus, and Verheissung und Erfuellung, which has been translated into English.

Mission In The City

On Thursday, March 11, the Rev. Lacy Harwell will speak at a 1:00 p.m. luncheon in the Small Dining Room on the theme "Mission in the city." Mr. Harwell will speak from the perspective of the work of his own Tabernacle Presbyterian Church, which is located near the University of Pennsylvania. Parish work is carried out among university students and inner city dwellers of many denominations. In the past Mr. Harwell has been a member of the Philadelphia Project of Inner City Churches. This visit on campus will be of import to all those who have an interest in the Church of Christ as it seeks to minister to various denominational and socio-economic groups. The meeting will be sponsored by the Ecumenical Fellowship Committee. Cost: 25¢ for boarders and $1.50 for non-boarders. "Brown baggers" and others are invited to come at 1:30 for Mr. Harwell's presentation. Special effort will be made to end the meeting promptly at 2:00, leaving time for questions.

Consultation On Church Union Meets In Kentucky

What would the ministry be like in a united church formed by denominations with widely-divergent practices in ordination and a variety of views on who is a minister?

Representatives of six communions will work on that question in the fourth meeting of the Consultation on Church Union here, April 5-8.

Participating in the consultation are the Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ), the Evangelical United Brethren Church, the Protestant Episcopal Church, the Methodist Church, the United Church of Christ and the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.

Ordination practices in these communions range from apostolic succession —the passing of the ministerial office from bishops believed to be in direct line from the apostles to candidates for the priesthood—to the ordination of ministers by any congregation of Christians.

Discussion of the ministry in a united church started in the consultation's third meeting last spring in Princeton, N. J. There the representatives approved a closing statement affirming a consensus "which, while not fully comprehensive nor final is, nevertheless, an encouraging basis for the work that lies before us."

In preparation for this year's talks on "Ordained Ministry in a United Church," the representatives, nine from each communion, are studying six papers written by some of their top scholars.

Two study commissions will bring reports to the Lexington meeting on "The Ministry in a United Church" and "Order and Ordination." These reports will be discussed in plenary sessions and small groups and revised before the end of the meeting.

The accomplishment of a single ministry is considered to be a key issue in the consultation, which is attempting to form a united church "truly catholic, truly reformed and truly evangelical."

Summer Fellowships Available For Faculty

Eight fellowships, each yielding $1,200, are available for post-doctoral Faculty members who are working on publishable papers in the humanities (literature, art, history, philosophy, etc.) dealing with religion. The purpose of the grant is to enable the recipient to forego summer teaching so as to further his research or writing in connection with his paper, at a location of his choice. Preference in the past has been accorded to younger candidates in the lower academic ranks (Instructor and Assistant Professor). While the project may ultimately be incorporated in a book, the essay should be an end in itself, and not a segment of a proposed book.

Candidates should submit, by September 1, 1965:

a) A biographical statement (include area of specialization)

b) A description of the paper: title, area, and relevancy to religion and the humanities

c) Letters of support, mailed directly to us, from three academicians relating to the competency of the candidate and providing an opinion on the proposed paper.

The candidate will be expected, at the close of the summer, to give a written report of his progress. The Weil Institute will be pleased to receive a copy of the paper on its completion.

Applications are to be sent to:

Pres. McCord in Australia And New Zealand

President James I. McCord will be away from the seminary campus during the month of March while he is on a lecture tour in Australia and New Zealand. Visits to several colleges and universities will be included in his itinerary.

A highlight of the trip will be a formal Princeton convocation at Ormond College during which President McCord will present the degree of Doctor of Theology to Graeme Maxwell Griffin, who completed requirements for the degree last October. Griffin is now on the staff of Ormond College, the school where he began his theological training.

Dr. McCord will return from "the land down under" about April 1.

Spring Conferences Climax Evangelistic Fellowship Calendar

Leach, Barnhouse To Be Special Speakers

"Evangelism is not the vested interest of one theological perspective, but must be integral to all theology and particularly the program of the church," commented Dick Grear, secretary of the Evangelistic Fellowship. "The church as a whole has so much lost sight of the evangelistic impulse, that the present task is as much one of education as program. It seems that those with evangelistic enthusiasm have tended to concentrate on certain wrong emphases while others shrug their shoulders and forfeit this part of the life of the church." It was with thoughts such as these that the Evangelistic Fellowship began its program this year.

Now in its thirty-second year, the Fellowship is one of the longest standing committees on campus. Operating in six teams of four members each under the supervision of the Field Work department, the group expects to serve a total of fifty-one churches this year. The ministry of the teams is directed mainly toward young people, although there has been an increasing interest among adult groups in various churches. Through special donations from various individuals and churches, the Fellowship is able to serve in inner-city and mission churches without charge.

"The primary task of the fellowship has continued to be that of a team ministry to churches in the New York, New Jersey and Philadelphia area," added Dick Kimbrough, treasurer of the organization. "Our primary theme is commitment to Jesus Christ; yet we try to present it within the context of the total program of the churches." The Fellowship has also tried to pursue the educational dimension of its envisioned task. A series of dinner-discussions is still in progress in which various aspects of evangelism have been examined with the help of faculty leaders. Dr. Dowey is the next scheduled speaker on the topic, "Is there a 'Core' to the Faith"; he will center his comments around the new confession now in process. The members of the Fellowship also meet, as a unit and as individual teams, to reflect on their visits to churches in order that they be a learning as well as a serving experience.

The climax of the year's program comes in April with a series of two Saturday conferences at the Seminary. To these conferences are invited all senior high young people from the churches visited by the Fellowship as well as guests of other seminarians who are invited by the officers to bring their field work or home church young people. Over three hundred are expected to join us at each conference for these stimulating meetings led by outstanding speakers as well as our own students. "Any students wishing to be added to the mailing list must let us know immediately."

Dick Grear and Dick Kimbrough

"In Bart Leach and Donald Barnhouse we have two outstanding speakers," continued Kimbrough, "but the real success of the conferences depends on the students of the Seminary. We will be needing twenty-five discussion group leaders for the afternoon sessions. The young people are also anxious just to meet and chat with the students. We are counting on all the help we can get."

Church & Society Committee

The Church and Society Committee, concerned with the social issues and problems which the church faces today, is preparing its program for this spring and next fall. It welcomes the perspectives and suggestions of interested students, and invites you to a planning meeting on Wednesday, March 10, at 1:30 p.m. in Stevenson lounge. If it is impossible to make this meeting, please see Gil Horn or Steve Richardson or any of the other members of the Committee. Your interest and comments will be most welcome.

D. T. Niles Is Guest On Campus

D. T. Niles, widely-known preacher and leader of the ecumenical church, is a welcome guest on the Princeton Seminary campus. He is here with his wife to speak Friday evening at 7:30 to the delegates to the Vocations Conference and members and friends of the seminary community. He will return for another address at the seminary later in the spring.

Dr. Niles was born in Jaffna, North Ceylon, where he still resides and holds teaching and pastoral responsibilities, in addition to his key ecumenical posts. He was trained for the ministry at United Theological College in Bangalore, India, and at Serampore College, and he completed his Ph.D. degree at the University of London. He is the author of many books and constantly in demand as a preacher and lecturer.

Their stay on campus has been a happy family occasion for Dr. and Mrs. Niles, since their son W. D. Niles is a Th.M. candidate at the seminary this year. It is a pleasure to welcome them to our midst.

Attention Middlers

Members of the Middler Class are advised that there is a class committee on curriculum which is designed to gather student opinion, to systematize and focus it, and to communicate to the faculty any clear trends of class sentiment. Any observations on the curriculum submitted to this committee will be given due consideration and passed on to the relevant and/or administration personnel. Members of the committee are: David Wills, Deane Tucker, Les Taylor, Loren Stenberg, Larry Ligo, Paul Mickey, Suzanne Noble, Phil Sorensen, Doug Sprenkle, and Rick Thyne.

HELL-O AGAIN SPORTS FANS : —

Hot from the press of the AP and UPI comes the bulletin that the great PTS Varsity B-ball team went down to Union last Thursday evening. Despite the valiant efforts of Graham, Lee, Thyne, Rholoff, and Wieting, the Union team prevailed 85-80. The Locker room reporter singled out Warren Lee seated under a bench. When asked how he thought the team played, Lee replied, "If it wasn't for their superior conditioning, excellent attitude and ability, coupled with good height and co-ordination and excellent shooting percentage, I think we would have taken them." Asked to single out the one thing that broke the P.T.S. team, Warren replied, "the only reason we lost was because I didn't shoot enough." A PS to this interview, Lee is currently leading the Seminary team in rebounds with 2 for the season.

The shock of the week was the unveiling of the all-new Off-Campus team which smashed Hodge, 46-45. The team of Long, Woll, Freshly, etc. was being kept in hiding until a crucial time in the season. The time was considered crucial when the Off-campus squad was firmly entrenched in the cellar.

Brown has walked off with the title and the league is now officially over. It appears that Alex and Off-Campus will be tied in second place and Hodge will take over the cellar.

The All-star selections have been made and are as follows:

Center	Milkman	Brown
F'wd	Cameron	Hodge
F'wd	Reutter	Brown
Guard	Capps	Alex
Guard	Watson	Brown

Second team selection were Watts, Brown; Batson, Jacobsen-Hodge; Sibson, Alex and Sams-Off-Campus.

A spring volleyball league will be set up for next week. The co-ed league which was originally planned was disbanded due to a lack of participation. Dates for playing in this new league will be posted.

Please follow up the table tennis tournament posted in the basement of the student center.

Attractions: Next two Fridays the Varsity B-ballers are playing New York City Young Life teams at our gym at 8 P.M. These should both be good games —see you there—to-night!!

San Francisco Ballet Returns To McCarter

The renowned SAN FRANCISCO BALLET, one of America's two principal ballet companies, will return to McCarter Theatre for a single performance on Thursday, March 25 at 8:30, prior to its extended engagement at Lincoln Center in early April. Under its General Director Lew Christensen, the Company of 80 with full orchestra appeared at McCarter a year ago for two performances before capacity audiences. Its program will include three new ballets, including Mr. Christensen's controversial "pop art" ballet entitled "Life, a do-it-yourself disaster" set to music of American composer Charles Ives.

The San Francisco Ballet is the nation's oldest classical ballet company and has been acclaimed on five continents during three separate State Department tours. It was the first ballet organization to stage both the full-length "Nutcracker" and "Swan Lake" in America. Tickets for the single evening performance at McCarter are now on sale at the box office.

Monday Lenten Meditations

Beginning this Monday, March 8, and continuing for five Monday evenings during the Lenten Season we will be meeting in the main lounge of the Campus Center from 7:00-7:30 p.m. for a Lenten meditation led by one of our faculty members. The first two meditations will be given by Dr. Bruce M. Metzger. The entire Seminary community is cordially invited to join us in this, our community participation in the Lenten Season.

Dr. Tournier to Speak In New York Church

On March 21, at 4:30 p.m., Dr. Paul Tournier, a distinguished Swiss physician and psychiatrist, will speak in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church in New York City. Dr. Tournier's interest in the whole man and his conception of the human personality have led him into the practice of psychotherapy. In this field, Dr. Tournier has had a vast and vital impact on the lives of many through his practice and his writing. His insights into selfhood, his recognition of the complexity of the individual, and his illuminating comments on the world of interpersonal relationships have made his books grippingly edifying and inspirational. Paul Tournier is also a man concerned with the all-over crisis prevailing in our world today as well as the construct, foibles and achievements of modern man.

Dr. Tournier has written widely. Among his books are: Guilt and Grace, A Doctor's Casebook In The Light Of The Bible, The Whole Person In A Broken World, and The Meaning Of Persons. Dr. Tournier is one of those rare authors who "blends the best of analytical psychology, existentialism, religion, and the practice of medicine." (Friends Journal)

Dr. Tournier's appearance in this country is a real opportunity to hear a man of profound insight and practical understanding. His speech on March 21, will be followed by a discussion group for young adults. This is a highly recommended experience and all are welcome.

Prayer for Consultation On Church Union

A prayer for the Consultation on Church Union has been released for use in congregations of the six participating communions on Sunday, April 4, the day before the consultation's fourth meeting opens here.

Attempting to form a church "truly catholic, truly reformed and truly evangelical" in the consultation are the Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ), the Evangelical United Brethren Church, the Protestant Episcopal Church, the Methodist Church, the United Church of Christ and the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.

The consultation's annual session, which will open Monday morning, April 5, and continue through Thursday morning, April 8, will be held at the Phoenix Hotel.

The prayer in support of the 1965 meeting was released by the consultation's Executive Committee with the request that it be printed in religious periodicals and used in worship services.

GENERAL EXAMINATIONS
September 1965

At its March meeting the Faculty authorized the giving of General Examinations in the Departments of Biblical Studies, History, and Theology in September 1965. These examinations probably will be scheduled during registration period and may include the following Saturday.

In order for a departmental examination to be given, at least 20 students must pre-register for it, through this office, in May.

This special administration is experimental in nature, and carries no commitment for the Fall of 1966.

THE REGISTRAR

Rev. Donald Benedict

The Rev. Donald Benedict of Chicago, Illinois, will speak to the Seminary community on the theme "Mission In The City" in the Main Lounge of the Campus Center at 1:35 on Wednesday, March 17.

Mr. Benedict has served as director of the Chicago Missionary Society since 1960. There he administers an inner-city program which includes four neighborhood houses, a ministry to Spanish-speaking residents and a camp for underprivileged city youth. The Society, and Mr. Benedict's views on the church and on mission in the city, were recently mentioned by TIME magazine in an article on inner-city church work around the country.

The background which Mr. Benedict has accumulated in inner-city work, and which he will bring to bear on the subject of his talk, is extensive. From 1954 to 1960 he did inner-city work in Cleveland, Ohio, where he organized the Inner-City Protestant Parish, and then served as its director. Earlier he was active in organizing the West Side Christian Parish, Chicago, and the East Harlem Protestant Parish in New York City.

The meeting will be of interest to all those presently engaged in or concerned with the role and stance of the Church in the city.

by Ken Parker

The week of upsets is now behind us. The great Princeton University team knocked off a highly rated Penn State team to gain entry to the NCAA quarter finals. The great effort lead by Bill Bradley has been cheered by many in the Seminary community. Of only slightly less significance was the white-washing handed out by the previously lack lustre Off-campus team to the highly touted, and formerly undefeated Brown Hall squad. Like the Bill of the University, the Bill of the Off-campus team riddled the porous Brown defense, as Bill Long racked up one of the best performances of the season.

As Brown Hall quietly and humbly backed into the championship there have been great rumors of discontent as to the quality of ball club that represents our "conference."

Alex and Hodge played a close one point game prior to the Off-campus Brown game. The two evenly matched clubs threatened to go into over time with a last minute foul, however a miss and the clock gave Alex the win by a one point margin.

The final standings show Brown with a 5-1 record, Alex and Off-campus tied with a 3-3 mark and Hodge in the cellar with a 1-5 season.

The Varsity Boys continued top flight action as they knocked off the Young Life Trotters, from the east side of New York. The final score was 80-78 and it was a great ball game. Another game of the same caliber will be coming up tonight, this time a Young Life club from Harlem. Admission for this game is free!

The Ping Pong tournament is dying a slow death from lack of participation. The people who are listed on the tournament are asked to either make arrangements to play their opponents or to cross their names from the list, as it is unfair to those who would like to see this get rolling.

With warm weather coming there is renewed interest in the softball season. The ground is, as, yet, too wet and muddy for softball and we will take up the slack with a quick intra-mural spring Volleyball season. The dates and times for the games are posted. Once the warm weather is with us for good, the softball season will begin. Anyone interested in being an umpire for these games, is asked to please contact me as soon as possible.

That's it for another week.

performance as Lawrence of Arabia. Joseph Conrad's adventure story about the torment of a rejected man is beautifully photographed and intelligently adapted to the film medium. (Screenwriter-director Richard Brooks gets some critical words in a Newsweek review, March 8 issue.)

Not being a great fan of films on religious themes, I was not surprised when Time and Newsweek had little to say for The Greatest Story Ever Told. However, the film has made more favorable impressions elsewhere. Our P.T.S. viewer reports that the Gospel story is presented tastefully and believably. In viewing such films it is wise to remember, however, that religious themes make fine box-office showings. If a little kerygma gets in as still recognizable, all to the good.

If you really care to make your New York trip complete, here's another suggestion. Each Saturday the Herald Tribune carries a critical guide to the Art Galleries and the week's exhibitions. Comments are arranged according to the geographical location of the galleries. The latest rage seems to be Op (optical) art, but other styles are always available.

At McCarter Macbeth will be presented once only, Saturday, March 13, at 8:30 p.m. Also in first performance, Pirandello's As You Desire Me appears Thursday, March 18, at 7:30 p.m. with the McCarter Professional Repertory Company. This is a comedy by a contemporary Italian playwright.

Prayer for Consultation

Spirit the whole family of thy children in heaven and earth is redeemed and sanctified to be thine eternal possession:

"Remember not our sins and offenses against thee and one another by the divisions and contentions that rend the Body of thy Church. Remove from us all ignorance, prejudice, indifference, and self-will that keep us from one heart and mind in the household of faith.

"Enlighten us with thy truth; increase in us thy love; and establish in us thy will for unity and peace. So may thy Name be glorified in all the earth, and our witness to the gospel of thy Son our Lord draw all men unto thee, and gather together in one the multitudes who are scattered abroad.

"Especially we pray for the guidance and grace of thy Holy Spirit upon the Consultation on Church Union, in all its prayer, deliberation, and action. Grant to them and to us wisdom to know, courage to obey, and joy to serve thee; for the sake of him by whom and for whom and unto whom all things are made, the same thy Son Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

Father Roland de Vaux To Speak

Father Roland de Vaux

On Monday, March 22 seminary students will have two opportunities to hear Old Testament scholar and archaeologist, Reverend Father Roland de Vaux. Father de Vaux will be lecturing at the University, 10 McCosh Hall, at 8:00 p.m. on the topic "Recent Archaeological Discoveries in Palestine and the Old Testament." This will be an open lecture without charge. For those seeking a more informal meeting, Father de Vaux will speak in Stevenson Lounge at 4:45 p.m. on the topic "Validity of the Patriarchal Traditions." All faculty, graduate students and others with particular interest in the field are invited to attend.

Rev. Roland de Vaux, O.P., was born in 1903. He entered the Dominican Order in 1920, and received his philosophical and theological education at Paris. After receiving his doctorate in theology, he became a professor at the Ecole Biblique in Jerusalem in 1933. He has been Director of the school since 1945.

Fr. de Vaux's scholarly ability is evidenced by his selection as leader of archeological missions at Tell el Far'ah and Khirbet Qumran, as well as by his election to membership in the Academie des Inscriptions et Belles Lettres in Paris. He is the head of the international team publishing texts held by the Palestine Archeological Museum, and head of the committee of directors for the Jerusalem Bible, for which he translated the books of Genesis, Samuel, and Kings. He is editor of the internationally respected biblical journal Revue Biblique. Most familiar to Fr. de Vaux' English-speaking audience is his Ancient Israel, published in 1960, which William Foxwell Albright calls "without peer in its field."

"Father de Vaux is an outstanding scholar and dynamic speaker," comments Professor Charles Fritsch, a longtime personal friend of Father de Vaux.

Princeton Group To Visit Maryknoll

Eighteen Princeton seminarians will journey up the Hudson to Ossining, New York, next Wednesday afternoon for an informal afternoon and evening with students at Maryknoll Seminary. Rod Hunter, who is Princeton Seminary's liaison man for inter-seminary activities, is in charge of arrangements for the visit.

Conversations with the men who are preparing for service in the Maryknoll Mission of the Roman Catholic Church began over a year ago at the Athens Conference of the National Student Christian Federation. Last spring a group from Maryknoll visited the Princeton campus, and during the present school year Maryknollers and Princetonians have met in the series of inter-seminary conversations which has included students from other traditions as well. This week's visit will provide for more direct contact between the two schools.

Maryknoll was the first foreign mission society of the Roman Catholic Church to be founded in America. The society was begun in 1911 by two priests. Maryknoll is not a religious community, but a society of diocesan priests representing American Roman Catholic clergy in foreign missions. Almost 2,000 priests, brothers, and seminarians are part of the mission in twelve countries on four continents. The opportunity to share in conversations with these brothers in Christ is welcomed by Princeton students.

Dr. Tournier, Eminent Psychiatrist To Speak

This Sunday, March 21, Dr. Paul Tournier of Geneva, Switzerland, will make his only public appearance in New York at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church at 4:30 p.m. After his lecture there will be an informal discussion for young adults.

As a leading Swiss physician and psychiatrist, Dr. Tournier has had vast experience in dealing with people. The confrontation of his Christian faith and psychological insight has made him one of the most penetrating writers of our time. A few of his books are: Guilt and Grace, The Meaning of Persons, and The Seasons of Life. In the latter, Dr. Tournier asks how can the life of man compare to the seasons of nature when nature ever renews herself—when man's life leads to death? Dr. Tournier makes the comparison and gives meaning to its implications.

"All the world's a stage
And all the men and women merely players;
They have their exits and their entrances;
And one man in his time plays many parts . . ." (Shakespeare)

From time immemorial, man has lived and half-lived in inter-relationships . . . and worn a mask. Tournier aptly deals with man's efforts in one-to-one encounters. But Dr. Tournier also goes beyond this to man's relationship in the broader realm of the world. He treats the individual's understanding beyond his environment—perhaps to Selma or Viet Nam. It is a complex world, a burgeoning society and Dr. Paul Tournier brings insight and depth to our part in it.

Seminarians are fortunate to have this opportunity to hear Dr. Paul Tournier and meet him in informal discussion afterwards.

IN MEMORIUM

The entire Seminary community extends its sympathy and prayers to Mrs. Helen Coleman on the death of her mother. Services were held at Trinity Episcopal Church in Princeton and at Mrs. Coleman's home in Connecticut.

Three temple-pounding flights up . . . skidding into class . . . Interpretative Speech? Oh no! A pre-class critique of the Huntington Hartford Museum of Art—current exhibition!

The show which drew such wondrous praise from Mr. Brower includes works done largely by nineteenth and twentieth century painters: Sergeant, Monet, Manet, Courbet, Dali, and Dore. Toulouse-Lautrec is represented by some of his early student work. A work called "The Slave" by Orozco drew an impassioned description from Mr. Brower. Notable among the sculpture shown were pieces by Rodin and heads of Gandhi and Kennedy done by the prominent American artist, Jo Davidson.

According to our critic's analysis, two criteria appear to have governed the exhibition. First, all work shown exhibits the skill of a master craftsman with disciplined control of his medium. Second, each canvas has a representational figure of some sort, though the treatment is often very modern in style. Mr. Brower's summary was, "A real feast of masterful execution."

The Huntington Hartford Museum of Art is located on Columbus Circle in Manhattan (59th St. and 8th Ave.). Visitors take the elevator to the fifth floor and work down. Admission is $1.

Come all you connoisseurs of wedlock! Taste the saucy spices of "Marriage Italian Style." The mysterious unfolding of the plot is somewhat baffling at first, but given a chance, a very interesting collage of reality and memory emerge. Marcello Mastroianni displays the skill that has earned him stardom, but he is limited by a role which remains stereotyped throughout. Sophia Loren, on the other hand, demonstrates extraordinary versatility as she develops from a scared seventeen-year-old to a woman of forty, bearing the marks of a difficult life. She looks equally authentic as a softly radiant beauty and as a bedraggled slut.

Done in American style, this film would probably have been either a riotous comedy or an introspective tragedy of personal conflict. The Italian film avoids both extremes, being at once believably poignant and humanly comic.

"Marriage Italian Style" with English soundtrack dubbed will be showing at the Garden Theater through Tuesday, March 23.

Student Council Profiles

Your Student Council represents a vital aspect of Seminary life. In order that the student body may be more aware of the dynamics of this council, a series of articles explaining its various committees is being presented. "The Wineskin" does this in the interest of student involvement.

Ken Parker

The Seminary sports calendar finds itself this week in one of its few lulls. Basketball is over—the shaky Brown five backed into another first place. The haughty Browners are already talking as if the All Sports' Trophy was in their hip pocket. The Varsity is rounding out a highly successful season with a return game with the boys from Faith Seminary. The game will be played at Sheldon College in Cape May. Softball is on its way—the season starts as soon as the field dries and Dr. Fritsch returns from Spring training in Florida.

The WINESKIN takes advantage of this break in the program to spotlight our very able Athletic Director, Ken Parker. Certainly Ken's sharp wit and devastating satire are familiar to our readers. His "victims" still smart from his poison pen (although Rick Thyne still throws up sixty footers). Likewise, we have all benefited from his diversified and well organized sports program.

"Every student, and I think especially Seminary students, need diversion to relieve and complement the academic pressure," commented Ken at the opening of the school year. "And unfortunately our sports program in the past has involved only a small number of students." Diversity and selectivity are the keynotes of Ken's philosophy. "I realize that some new events will not work out; but every successful new program will justify the effort." A seminary olympics, an ice-skating party, several new sports

Malcolm X Assistant to Speak Here

On Wednedsay, March 24 to 8 P.M. in the Main Lounge of the Campus Center, James Shabazz will speak on "Christianity And The American Negro." Mr. Shabazz was an assistant to the late Malcolm X. The New York Times called Shabazz one of the possible successors to the slain black nationalist leader and his colest friend. As a leader of the Organization of Afro-American Unity Mr. Shabazz has addressed student groups throughout the East. His visit to Princeton, which is being sponsored by the Urban Project, will be of interest to all who are concerned about the present crisis in our nation and the role of the Christian in it.

Volunteers!

The Evangelistic Spring Conferences are to be held on Saturdays, April 3 and 24. Approximately three hundred high school students will be attending on each date. Several outstanding speakers will be speaking on the theme, "The Life of Faith in a World of Challenge." However, the success of the weekends depends on the effectiveness of the discussion groups to be led by seminary students. This opportunity for reflection, insight and sharing of thoughts and ideas will be the crucial aspect of the total program. The maximum number for a good group discussion is twelve. This means we will need at least twenty-five leaders. Anyone interested in participating in this phase of the Fellowship program, or any other aspect of the conference too, please notify Dick Kimbrough, Howard Friend or Dick Grear immediately.

Friday Flick Previews

On Friday night, March 26 at 7:15 p.m. in the Campus Center Auditorium, the Friday nite flick series resumes with Pal Joey starring Frank Sinatra, Rita Hayworth and Kim Novak. Rita Hayworth plays a wealthy widow and Kim Novak is the small town beauty who dances at the club where Joey (Frank Sinatra) is M.C. John O'Hara's characters have been eset to music by Rogers and Hart. Included in the score are "If You Asked Me I Could Write A Book," "The Lady is A Tramp," "My Funny Valentine," "I Didn't Know What Time It Was," "There's A Small Hotel," and "Bewitched, Bothered and Bewildered."

such as volleyball and handball are all innovations of Ken's leadership.

Ken has matched his desire to develop a more comprehensive program with time consuming ambition. The time he has spent on the job has not been dictated by the job description but by his own interest and dedication. "I'm sure Ken spends more evenings in the gym than at home," adds Helle Parker, Ken's wife. "Our son Scott thinks daddy is a visitor."

Ken is now in the process of looking for a parish next year. When asked what he was looking for in a church he answered quickly: a basketball hoop in the driveway, a bowling alley in town, a trout stream in the backyard, and a church softball team. Ken . . . if you can't find that church, I hear the Met's are looking for a playing chaplain.

Bart Leach To Speak At Spring Conference

Three Hundred Expected Here

Bart Leach

The first of the Annual Spring Conferences sponsored by the Evangelistic Fellowship will be held next Saturday, April 3. Bart Leach will be the principal speaker on the theme, "The Life of Faith in a World of Challenge."

Bart, a graduate of Penn in 1955, received his B.D. from Princeton in 1959. He served as Student Pastor of the Stockton Presbyterian Church while a P.T.S. student and is now serving as the pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Oceanside, New York.

As an undergraduate at Penn Bart played three years of varsity basketball being an All-Ivy forward in the 1953-54 and 1954-55 seasons as well as the league's Most Valuable Player in his senior year. After seminary graduation he toured briefly with the Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association.

Bart, a frequent rally speaker, is especially challenging to young people.

The schedule for the day, which begins promptly at 10:00 a.m., is both interesting and diverse. Dean Homrighausen will lead in morning worship and introduce the theme. This will be followed by a series of elective workshop-seminars led by students and faculty. After a picnic lunch, weather permitting, Warren Lee will lead a Hootenanny. Following the theme address there will be a chance for reflection and sharing of ideas in small group discussions led by seminary students. The schedule continues with a tour of the campus and historic Princeton and concludes with a vesper service led by Terry Casteel.

This is one of the few opportunities for high school young people to visit the seminary and every seminary student is invited to use it. However, reservations should be made with Dick Kimbrough or a member of the Fellowship immediately.

DR. J. CHRISTY WILSON, JR.
AFGHANISTAN

Dinner and Discussion in The Small Dining Room

J. CHRISTY WILSON, JR., went to Afghanistan in 1961 to become Acting Principal of the Habibia High School in Kabul, working under the Royal Afghan Ministry of Education. During that time he organized the first Protestant Church and church school in Afghanistan, and after five years received official government permission to become a full-time minister of the congregation. Currently on home leave in Princeton with his wife and three children, Dr. Wilson is a graduate of Princeton University and Princeton Seminary. Before going to Afghanistan he served under the Board of National Missions in New Mexico, and was a staff member of the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship.

DR. SAMUEL H. MOFFETT
KOREA

7:00 p.m., Campus Center Main Lounge

SAMUEL HUGH MOFFETT is currently Professor of Church History and Theology at the Theological Seminary of the Presbtyerian Church in Korea at Seoul. A graduate of Princeton Seminary, he earned a Ph.D. from Yale University before going to China as a Presbyterian missionary in 1947. Deported in 1951, he taught at Princeton Seminary and later served as Acting Personnel Secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions. In 1955 he returned to the Far East as a missionary to Korea, the land of his birth. Currently on furlough, Dr. and Mrs. Moffett are living in Princeton.

DR. D. T. NILES
SOUTHEAST ASIA

7:45 p.m., Miller Chapel

D. T. NILES, now Chairman of the North District of the Methodist Church in Ceylon, is a minister, educator, and ecumenical leader who has gained the reputation of being the leading spokesman to students of the generation. The preacher for the opening service of the Amsterdam Assembly of the World Council, he has chaired the Department of Studies in Evangelism of the World Council, the World's Student Christian Federation, and is currently general secretary ofthe East Asia Christian Conference. His lectureships have included appointments at Princeton, Union and Yale seminaries, and numerous universities in this country and abroad.

The new DIMENSION has appeared, and the editors of THE WINESKIN welcome our sister publication. Clayton Carlson and his staff have done an outstanding job in producing Princeton Seminary's student theological journal, and we commend them for their efforts. We are looking forward to reading your reactions and comments in the third member of the student publications family, VIEWPOINT.

Director of Student Studies Moves To New Office in Hodge Hall

Dr. Samuel Blizzard Is Named To Direct Advisory Operation

"The main function and goal of this office is to maximize the flexibility of the seminary curriculum." This is the way Professor Samuel Blizzard evaluates the role of the Office of Student Studies. Dr. Blizzard and his secretary Mrs. Barbara Hirst have set up shop in 115 Hodge Hall—a spacious and newly refurbished suite (we should know, we were the former tenants).

Need To Individualize

"Our most urgent task is to better individualize the curriculum and therefore increase the academic level and competence of the student," Dr. Blizzard elaborated. Most students, speaking in terms of academic preparation for seminary, fall into the modal group. However, a significant number lie outside this category. Some students come to seminary with extensive training in fields relating specifically to some fields involved in the course of study here. Having anticipated seminary training they come here with a working knowledge of some of our introductory material. Others, however, have had only minimal preparation for seminary disciplines, some without the language requirement and others having majored in notably unrelated fields. "Flexibility in a student's program in terms of his academic potential, and past performance and preparation is essential," continued Professor Blizzard.

"This does not," he added, "necessitate a basic policy change. These facts are clearly indicated in the academic regulations, the Handbook and the Catalogue. The task at hand is to best implement the existing policy to the greater good of the individual student." Dr. Blizzard indicated that one very necessary element in effecting this will be the establishing of clearly defined and understood procedures. "Our job is one not of innovation but implementation," summerized Dr. Blizzard. "We need to better articulate, understand and implement existing policies and procedures.'

Counselling, Not Administration

Dr. Blizzard envisions the job as a counselling rather than an administrative—academic function. There are numbrous offices on campus to deal with the various aspects of student concern: financial, medical, field education and the like. Yet the Office of Student Studies involves each of these concerns as it seeks to centralize and coordinate inquiry and advisement for the student. It is as these various aspects of the life of the seminarian are contributory to his total wellbeing that they become the concern of this office.

There are many specific as well as a host of general situations in which a student might seek Dr. Blizzard's counsel. 1) Plans for and problems relating to the general examinations: patterning of courses, projecting academic progress, procedures and regulations for retakes. 2) Matters pertaining to senior concentration :minimum requirements, seeking advisors, choosing an area. 3) Factors related to the quality and scope of academic performance.

Welcomes Opinions

Professor Blizzard is very much open to opinion and suggestion regarding academic policy and procedures at the seminary. He has already read with interest and concern the various articles in "Viewpoint" speaking to the subject. He welcomes at any time comments that students may offer.

The facilities in 115 Hodge Hall should contribute to the effectiveness of the proposed task. There is a conference room where groups of students with common problems and/or concerns may confer with Dr. Blizzard. Mrs. Hirst mans the reception room and filing operation. Dr. Blizzard has a separate office for private consultation. Students may inquire at any time although priority will be given to appointments. The official office hours are Tuesday, 10:40-11:30; Wednesday, 11:40-12:30; Thursday, 1:45-3:00 and Friday, 1:45-2:15.

Howard Moody To Speak On Obscenity

Does obscenity consist in the stringing together of "fourletter words" or in the use of language in such a way as to break down the personality of another human being? To what extent is obscenity immorality, and to what extent is it a matter of personal taste conditioned by such factors as social class. Howard Moody discussed such topics in a thought-provoking article in a recent issue of Christianity and Crisis. On Wednesday, March 31, Princeton Seminary students and faculty will have an opportunity to hear Mr. Moody develop further his ideas on the subject of obscenity at a luncheon in the small dining room sponsored by the Church and Society committee.

Mr. Moody came to the Judson Memorial Church in Greenwich Village, New York City in 1956. Judson Church has been the subject of magazine articles and national radio and television programs. This unique church has a very diverse ministry relative to the cultural life of the Village. The Judson Poets' Theater received five "Obies" (annual awards for off-Broadway plays) in the 1963-64 theater season. The Judson Dance Theater has won a great deal of acclaim as one of the outstanding avant-garde dance groups in the city. In addition to the theaters, the church has been involved in work with narcotics addicts, has a Community Center for delinquent and pre-delinquent children; and there is an international interracial house for students studiyng in the metropolitan area.

Mr. Moody has been active in civic and community affairs. He has been active in the struggle for more humane treatment of drug addicts and was a delegate to the 1962 White House Conference on Narcotics Addiction. He has also been involved in the area of Civil Rights. In addition to his political activity, he has been on the faculty of the New School for Social Research and is the author of "The Fourth Man" published by the Macmillan Company in 1964.

Davidson Male Chorus and Organist Gale Enger Head Musical Calendar

Widely Travelled Chorus To Sing Here Saturday Night

Donald Plott

The outstanding Davidson College Male Chorus from Davidson, North Carolina, with Donald Plott directing, will appear in concert at 7:00 p.m., in the Campus Center Auditorium, on Saturday, March 27.

Termed by critics as one of the finest choral organizations in the nation with 32 selected voices, the Chorus was formed more than a half-century ago by student directors. It now publishes its own choral series for male voices and has made two longplaying records.

In consecutive annual tours for 31 years through twenty-four states, these noted collegians have appeared in principle cities from Miami to New York to New Orleans performing before audiences ranging from 50 in number to approximately 5,000 in Williams Park, St. Petersburg, Florida. In February 1964 the chorus sang on the NBC National Radio Pulpit series. It has appeared on TV and in four operas during the past three seasons.

The primary function of the Chorus is to give Davidson students a chance to study choral singing and the finest in choral literature. Many of its members are candidates for the ministry, and their training will help them with music in the churches they will some day serve.

The Chorus will be heard here singing selections from such masters as Nanin, Grieg, Handl, Schubert as well as a selection of folk songs from various countries. A special group with the

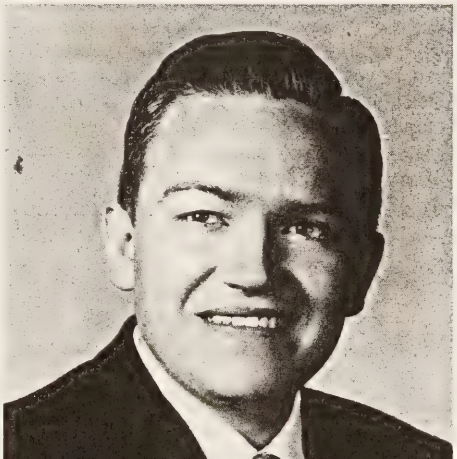
Noted Local Organist Plays At Three Thursday Recitals

Mr. Gale Enger of the faculty of the Westminster Choir College will be the organist for three consecutive Thursday Organ Recitals on April 1, 8 and 22, in Miller Chapel from 1:35 p.m. to 2:05 p.m.

Mr. Enger has been widely acclaimed for his eloquence and precision. His sure technical command, rhythmical excellence and registration seem to grow out of the music itself. His many audiences have found his performances a rewarding and satisfying musical experience.

Mr. Enger's 1964-65 recital series will take him to concerts across the country. He played at the Southwest Regional Convention of the American Guild of Organists, a distinct honor in the field. He has played concerts recently at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church and Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church in



Gale Enger

New York. Of the latter the American Organist commented, "Our general reaction: watch (and listen to) Gale Enger; he possesses rewarding gifts."

His recital at Princeton will include the "Prelude and Fugue in G Minor" by Dietrich Buxtehude, "Come Now, Saviour of the Heathen," by Johann Sebastian Bach and "Sinfonia" from the Cantata, "We thank Thee, God." also by Bach. Enger will conclude his program with "Fantasy and Fugue on 'B.A.C.H.'" by Franz Liszt. "This work may be considered a greeting from one of the great virtuosi of the 19th century to the greatest of the 18th century," writes Mr. Enger.

Student Employment

Applications are now being received for appointments to campus jobs for the 1965-66 academic year. Students may apply for the following positions:

Student Head Waiter
Assistant Head Waiter (2)
Director of Housing
for Married Students (full year)
Director of Student Employment
Athletic Director

All of the jobs except that of Director of Housing are for the academic year, with responsibilities beginning with the opening of the Fall semester. The housing director begins his work on June 1, and is expected to work full time during the summer and approximately ten hours weekly during the academic term.

Interested students should inquire of the current holders of these positions about the nature of their duties. Stipends are set annually, and will be announced at the time the appointments are confirmed.

Applicants are requested to write a letter of application to Mr. James E. Andrews, Assistant to the President, describing their qualifications and indicating the kind of program he expects to undertake. Interviews may be required at a later date.

While the factor of financial need will be considered, these positions require a high degree of competence in program planning and administration, or staff supervision. Demonstrated ability in these areas, as well as the talent for securing the cooperation of associates, will be an important factor in selection.

Letters of application should be submitted no later than April 9.

Books of the Week

On sale are all books written or edited by Dr. Charles C. West. These are:

The Sufficiency of God, ed. by Robert C. Mackie & Charles C. West, Phila.: Westminster Press, hardbound, 240 pages

This contains about ten essays by different scholars on Ecumenical hope, in honor of W. A. Visser't Hooft

Johannes Hamel, A Christian in East Germany, ed. by Charles C. West, New York: Association Press, 1960, hardbound, 126 pages

Hamel was a minister in the East Zone of Germany who has faced both Nazism and Communism with a faith that overcomes the world. The book is a collection of his sermons, addresses, written conversations, letters and articles.

Charles C. West, Communism and Theologians, New York: Macmillan Co., 1958, paperback, 399 pages.

Analyses of Barth, Berdyaev, Brunner, Hromadka, Niebuhr, Tillich and others in their stand toward Communism.

The Kiosk

by Blair Moffett

"They'll have to clean me up a little for the history books," says Ben Franklin. But history is not the primary concern of the Broadway show Ben Franklin in Paris. The script occasionally borrows the lack-luster quality of some history books; but then, few interpreters of character compare favorably with Robert Preston.

The show is cleverly staged with good sets. At one point, Ben Franklin and the Contessa fly over Paris in a balloon while a moving backdrop shows the ground below.

The action opens slowly, often skirting schmaltz only with the help of Mr. Preston's ability to pull it off. For the most part delightfully robust, the show quite obviously owes its success to its star. Several years ago, an unknown Robert Preston got the part of Professor Harold Hill when he astounded Music Man auditioners with a carefully mastered rendition of "Ya Got Trouble." Today he is recognized as a performer who can make even Ben Franklin in Paris an entertaining evening.

Top Op Pop

When the splash and splatter technique in painting appeared, art lovers raised howls of protest that such productions should not bear the name of Art. Now that Jackson Pollack is "in," the problem has shifted to the other extreme, and we ask whether the drafting board technique of "Op" designs rules them out of the Art category.

Optical art uses design and color in such a way as to give a unique visual experience. For example, a large red canvass contains small oval spots of blue and orange which seem to move and disappear because of the juxtaposition of colors. The use of complementary colors in other pieces gives the impression of changing color as you continue to look.

The Museum of Modern Art (5th Ave. and 53rd St.) is presenting an exhibition of Op Art called "The Responsive Eye." All the works shown are well-done, though the range of effectiveness is great. Materials used include canvas, glass, wood, metal, mirrors, and plastic. All in all it is a visual exercise which may well shake up your pre-conceptions. What is Art, anyway?

Davidson Chorus Here

Chorus called the "Lamplighters" sings show tunes, folk songs, western laments and ballads.

Mr. Donald Plott is the director of the Chorus. A graduate of the University of Michigan, where he received his master's degree in music, he is also a professor of music, director of the department of music and an instructor in voice at Davidson. Rufus Hallmark, tenor, and Dupre Jones, baritone will serve as soloist on tour. Harry Causey is student director and accompanist.

by Ken Parker

The world of basketball came to a grinding halt on Thursday night as the tough varsity squad knocked off the boys from Faith Seminary. To establish the setting of this game, it should be realized that this squad travelled up from Philly the previous week and knocked off an even tougher Princeton squad by 15 points. The following night our "boys" played a high school young life group and were humbled by 25 points.

Reeling from the two successive drubbings five of the team crawled into the Thynewagon and headed for the isolated wilds of Cape May and the Christian Admiral hotel. History seemed to be repeating itself as the 150 fans cheered Faith to an 18 point margin at the half. However, Princeton wasn't finished and by the end of the game they owned an 8 point lead. The leading scorers were Mark Rholoff with 28 and Warren Lee with 27.

The rather anemic volleyball schedule has not managed to lift off as yet. There has been a suggestion that it be changed to late afternoon and this will be attempted. A schedule will be printed and circulated by the end of the week.

Two projected plans call for a swimming party at the local YMCA on a week day night and a bowling tournament, if interest warrants. With rather dubious speed we are determining a ping pong champ, anyone who has signed up for this, please fulfill your OBLIGATION and make arrangements to play your listed opponent in the basement of the student center.

Spring and softball are right around the corner—I think!

"Pal Joey" — Friday Flick

On March 26, Pal Joey will be the movie fare in the Campus Center Auditorium at 7:15 p.m. A wealthy widow, a dancing beauty, and Joey are the movie adaptations of John O'Hara's characters in this music-filled film. Included in the score by the inimitable Rogers and Hart are "If You Asked Me I Could Write A Book," "The Lady is A Tramp," "My Funny Valentine," "I Didn't Know What Time It Was," "There's A Small Hotel," and "Bewitched, Bothered and Bewildered." Rita Hayworth, Kim Novak, and Frank Sinatra star in this story which evolves around the club where Joey works.

Single admission is 50¢ for those without season tickets.

Dr. Loder To Speak On Religion And The Public Schools

Dr. James E. Loder

Should the church support the movement for the elimination of prayer and Bible reading in the public schools? What rationale is there for this position, and what are some of the dangers of which the church must continue to be aware? These questions are particularly relevant to the church today in the light of continued agitation for a more marked separation of church and state. Sponsored by the Church and Society Committee, Dr. James E. Loder will examine some of these questions Tuesday evening, April 6, at 7:00 p.m. in the main lounge of the campus center.

To Publish Book On Subject

Dr. Loder has probed this question with considerable care, and is the author of a book on the subject, "Religion and the Public Schools," which has just been published. All who have been a part of Dr. Loder's classes are aware of his challenging and stimulating approach, and his broad interdisciplinary perspective provides a comprehensive overview of this issue. There will be ample time for questions and discussion following the talk.

Snack Bar Will Remain Open

The Seminary Snack Bar will be open during the Easter vacation, April 10-18, daily from 9-5:30. Regular Slater employees will be serving a full menu selection.

Educated at the Universities of Halle, Heidelberg and Jena, Professor Kraus joined the faculty of the University of Bonn in 1956 after two years in a Duesseldorf pastorate. In 1949 he went to the University of Goettingen, and in 1951 returned to Bonn as a full professor. He has held the chair of Old Testament at Hamburg since 1954.

His published volumes include: Die Koenigsherrschaft Gottes in Alten Testament, Die Verkuendigung der Weisheit Prophetie und Politik, Gottesdienst in Israel (to be published this year in English as Worship in Israel.)

The Stone lectureships were established by former Director and Trustee of the Seminary, Levi P. Stone. He created the foundation in 1871 which has been applied annually since 1883 to the payment of a lecturer chosen by the faculty to speak on a topic related to theological studies. The endowment has been increased in 1903-1906 through the generosity of Mr. Stone's sisters.

Professor Kraus will combine evening and afternoon presentations during his lectureship. He will speak at 7:45 p.m. each evening, Monday through Thursday, April 19-22, and also at 2:00 p.m. on Tuesday, April 20.

Visit By Howard Hageman and Presbytery Meeting Head Busy Senior Schedule

Newark Pastor to Speak on Parish Ministry and Lead Communion Service

On Thursday, April 8 the Senior Class will welcome to the Seminary campus the Reverend Dr. Howard G. Hageman, pastor of the North Reformed Church in Newark, New Jersey.

Dr. Hageman is particularly interesting to seminarians considering the parish ministry as he has lent a unique diversity and creativity to his own work as a parish minister. Although he calls North Church home base and preaches there each Sunday, he has managed to become involved in a variety of other areas. He is a frequent radio preacher and moderates a weekly Sunday morning panel discussion broadcast out of Newark. He is author of several books and articles, and is considered an authority on liturgics. He has been a frequent visitor to our campus in various capacities. He was a delegate from the Reformed Church of America at the World Presbyterian Alliance in Frankfurt, Germany this summer and directed the worship services for the conference.

Seniors, as well as other interested seminary students will have several opportunities to meet with Dr. Hageman. He will speak informally at both 1:30 and 4:30 p.m. in Stevenson Lounge on the "Dimensions of the Parish Ministry," in which he will discuss his sense of priorities and how he puts his day and week together. He will speak at a dinner-discussion on the Veranda, sponsored by the Evangelistic Fellowship, on the topic "Worship and Meaning."

Dr. Hageman will conclude his day leading in worship and preaching at a communion service at 8:00 p.m. This is sponsored by the Senior Class but all who would care to join with the seniors for the last service before Easter are welcome.

Presbytery Will Meet Wednesday Night

A meeting of the "Presbytery of Princeton" has been called by Moderator, Ernest Williams, for April 7 at 7:15 p.m. in Room 6, Stewart Hall. The Presbytery will take action on a variety of matters, including: Examination of Candidates for Ordination, Requests from different churches, Calls and Dissolutions of Pastoral Relations, and Special Matters of Presbytery Business. As enrolled members of this "Presbytery" all Seniors are expected to be present. Faculty, wives, and other guests are cordially invited.

Important Middler Class Meeting

The placement process is long and involved—here's a chance to get a head start! This is the thinking of Middler class president, David Wills and Secretary of the Seminary, Mr. Arthur Byers. On Wednesday, April 7 the middler class will meet in Stuart Hall, Room 6 at 1:45 p.m. for this purpose.

The Senior Information Form will be introduced and distributed at this meeting. With the exception of a few questions, this is general information which can be prepared now in order to facilitate the placement process next year. With such preliminary matters eliminated the initial pressures of the senior year can be relieved. This will be a tentative draft to be finalized in the fall.

This will also be an opportunity to share some useful perspectives on the placement process as a whole as well as suggest some preliminary steps that can be taken in the Spring and Summer months. Initial contacts can be made with synod and presbytery executives enroute home, presbytery requirements can be dealt with and the like.

All Middlers are strongly encouraged to attend this very important meeting.

St. Andrews Professor To Be Guest Here

On Monday, April 5 Dr. Robert McLachlan Wilson of St. Andrew's will be a guest of the Seminary. He will speak in the Main Lounge to the entire Seminary community at 1:30 p.m. and will meet at an informal tea with the Biblical Department Faculty at 4:00 p.m.

Professor Wilson received his M.A. with First Class Honors in Classics in 1939, his B.D. with Distinction in New Testament Language, Literature and Theology in 1942, and his Ph.D. at Cambridge in 1945. He was pastor of Rankin Church (Church of Scotland) in Lanarkshire from 1946 to 1954 and a lecturer in New Testament Language and Literature at St. Mary's College, University of St. Andrews since 1954.

Dr. Wilson's published works include, The Gnostic Problem, Studies in the Gospel of Thomas and Pagan Religion at the Coming of Christianity. He was editor of the English editions of the New Testament Apocrapha. He will be speaking here on the New Testament Period.

All Campus Party

April 1 is April Fool's Day but April 2 is 103rd You Know What Day according to the Calendar of Memorable Dates. In celebration of such a serious and momentous day, there will be a Fool's Folly Party. The charismatic St. Hereticus has intimated that he may be the host. And due to his influence, the Folly will begin with a Laurel and Hardy movie. A Hootenanny follows and who knows what havoc fools or folly can do to guitars and folk singers . . .and the audience! Dancing will also be a part of the evening. The de-mythologized facts are:

Bentley and Simon Return For Robe Showing

Wednesday, April 7th, from 10:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., in Stevenson Lounge, Bentley and Simon will have their second Robe Showing, announced Dennis Tarr, Princeton Representative. On display will be a wide variety of pulpit robes, academic gowns, clerical accessories and the Princeton Seminary hood. All students and faculty are invited to attend the showing.

Books on Sale

John Baillie, Baptism and Conversion, Charles Scribner's Sons: New York, 1963, hardbound, 112 pages

There is a good historical study of both baptism and conversion as well as the views of present churches in this book. Most of the book deals with conversion ending with an attempt to determine the exact nature of regeneration and conversion. John Baillie hardly needs to be introduced as one of the great figures of this generation in the field of religious thought.

James M. Gustafson, Treasure in Earthen Vessels, Harper and Brothers: New York, 1961, hardbound, 141 pages

Seeing the church as a human community, an earthen vessel, which God has chosen to immerse in the life of the world, this book analyzes the church in terms of social theory on communities and also connects this with the best thinking from theology.

Richardson Wins A Danforth Internship

Steve Richardson

The Danforth Foundation has announced that a Danforth Seminary Internship has been awarded to Middler John Stephen Richardson, of Shreveport, Louisiana for 1965-66.

Sixteen Danforth Seminary Interns were chosen from candidates nominated to the Danforth Foundation by deans of theological schools in the United States, according to an announcement made by Robert Rankin, Associate Director of the Danforth Foundation. Each theological school accredited by the American Association of Theological Schools was eligible to nominate students for this program. The appointees were chosen on the basis of intellectual ability, personal qualities promising success in the campus ministry, and dedication to the Christian religion.

The Danforth Seminary Interns will use the grant for a year of supervised training in an on-campus apprenticeship designed to help these young men and women presently in theological study determine whether or not the campus ministry is a vocational option for their future.

The colleges and universities participating in the Danforth Seminary Intern Program are carefully selected, and every effort is made to suit the training situation to the Intern's particular interests and needs. Each Intern is assigned to work with an experienced campus minister who serves as his supervisor and counselor for the year.

In addition to the stipend, allowances for rental expense, a Stewardship Fund, and travel and moving expenses are provided for the grant recipients.

Each year an orientation conference dealing with the profession of the campus ministry and its place in higher education is held in mid-summer for the recently selected Interns and their Campus Supervisors.

Prayer for Consultation On Church Union

Almighty and everlasting God, Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, by whose Spirit the whole family of thy children in heaven and earth is redeemed and sanctified to be thine eternal possession:

Remember not our sins and offenses against thee and one another by the divisions and contentions that rend the Body of thy Church. Remove from us all ignorance, prejudice, indifference, and self-will that keep us from one heart and mind in the household of faith.

Enlighten us with thy truth; increase in us thy love; and establish in us thy will for unity and peace. So may thy Name be glorified in all the earth, and our witness to the gospel of thy Son our Lord draw all men unto thee, and gather together in one the multitudes who are scattered abroad.

Especially we pray for the guidance and grace of thy Holy Spirit upon the Consultation on Church Union, in all its prayer, deliberation, and action. Grant to them and to us wisdom to know, courage to obey, and joy to serve thee; for the sake of him by whom and for whom and unto whom all things were made, the same thy Son Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Dr. McCord Returns

Princeton Seminary President James I. McCord returns to Princeton this week after a four-week lecture tour of Australia and New Zealand. During the trip he spoke at five theological schools, addressed gatherings of ministers, and preached in several churches.

Highlighting the schedule was President McCord's delivery of the Centenary Lectures of Ormond College of the University of Melbourne. Five lectures were given under the theme "Grace and the Kingdom."

On March 16, during the lectures at Melbourne University, President McCord convened a Princeton Theological Convocation at Ormond College, and awarded to the Rev. Mr. Graeme M. Griffin the degree of Doctor of Theology. Griffin completed his doctoral work at the Seminary last year, and has since joined the Ormond faculty. The hood presented to Griffin by President McCord to mark the official conferring of his degree was a gift from friends at Princeton Seminary. While studying at Princeton Seminary Mr. Griffin lived with his wife at 31 Bank Street.

Other theological schools at which President McCord spoke included St. Andrews College of the United Faculty of Theology at Sydney; Leigh College in New South Wales; and Knox College in Dunedin, New Zealand and the University of Auckland, New Zealand.

Clothing Drive To Be Conducted This Week

The Church and Society Committee, on behalf of and in conjunction with Church World Service, will sponsor its annual clothing drive during the week of April 5-9. Roger Quillin is in charge of organizing the drive.

Many of the major denominations in this country cooperate through CWS in a ministry of overseas aid in the name of Christ to the victims of natural disasters, the refugees, and the needy throughout the world. Besides clothing, CWS programs provide food, shelter, health services, vocational and educational assistance, scholarships, rehabilitation and resettlement for refugees. Last September CWS provided immediate aid to 44,000 Koreans left homeless due to torrential rains and resulting floods.

Last fall the committee took the liberty to contribute what was then on hand to a local clothing drive to be sent to Negroes in Mississippi.

Most of the major buildings on campus have year-round facilities for collecting clothing for CWS, but one week of the year is set aside for a concentrated effort. Representatives in each dormitory will assist residents, while additional boxes will be placed in the basement of Stuart Hall and on the main floor of the Campus Center to accommodate off-campus students. Even though most of the clothing given will be second-hand, it is asked that it be wearable. Styles and sizes are of no importance.

Financial Aid Applications Due

Students who plan to apply for financial aid for the 1965-66 academic year may pick up application forms in the office of James E. Andrews, Assistant to the President.

Completed forms may be returned to the Office of the Assistant to the Treasurer at any time after that date, and interviews will begin April 5. It is necessary that the application be completed and turned in before the interview takes place.

In some cases summer employment and next year's field education assignments are still to be made. Students are encouraged to begin the application process now, and complete it when job arrangements are final. Aid applications will be reviewed in the fall to adjust inequities (both up and down!), but it will be very difficult to begin an aid application in the Fall. Students who do not make application in the Spring will be presumed to be self-supporting.

What happens when a 22-year-old girl working on her Ph.D. in sociology joins a band of Gypsies? That would be telling. But word has it that what does happen in Bajour is thoroughly delightful. Excellent staging and sets coupled with "color like an artist's palette" provide a real feast for the eyes. Chita Revera leads the cast with her own brand of driving vitality, dancing with flexibility and rhythm "like she came out of the earth." The script is not exceptional, but it is tight, fast moving, and hilariously funny. With ingredients such as these, it is no wonder that the pot is good lickin'. One caution: "Bajour" is Gypsy talk for "swindle". Beware!

Meanwhile, back in the temple For most people, once you've seen a Thai rubbing you've seen all the Thai rubbings you need. However, if you've never seen a Thai rubbing from a temple stone, now is the time to launch yourself upon the frontiers of a new esthetic experience. Several excellent prints of these typically intricate and graceful figures are new being shown at Gallery 100. Also on display, thanks to Bill Miller and Ken Ralph, is a collection of primitive art from New Zealand. Using the crudest of materials, the artists have graphically represented human experience, often portraying a story.

McCarter montage If you are reading this hot off the press, there is still time for you to catch Macbeth Friday, April 2 at 8:30 p.m. If that doesn't give you time to get dressed, try the opening night presentation of Aristophanes' The Birds. Written in 414 B.C., this Greek comedy is a "bawdy and irreverant satire on Athenian character." In the Classic Film Series, Alfred Hitchcock's Vertigo hits the screen Tuesday at 8 p.m. starring James Stewart and Kim Novak.

by Ken Parker

The world of muscle and coordination was hampered by the world of the intellect this past week, as the proposed match between the All-Stars of the intra-mural circuit and the Varsity squad was called due to lack of participants. The great hope of a make up is lost in the confusion of spring and the attempt to get in a good softball season. This is difficult at best due to sloppy April weather. However if all goes well, the season will start this coming Wednesday. Brown vs. Hodge at 2 p.m. and Off-Campus vs. Alexander at 4. Be prompt as the games must be finished prior to 6 p.m.

There has been some interest in an afternoon Volleyball league. The gym will be available on Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 p.m. for anyone interested in playing. You may either form teams or play a pick-up game each week.

If the Splash party, which was held last Wednesday, was considered a success and if interest warrants we plan another one before the end of school in May.

That's it from a rather sparce week!

PRINCETON THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY • FRIDAY, APRIL 23, 1965 • VOL. 2 • NO. 10

Dr. Blake To Meet With Senior Class

Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, Stated Clerk of the General Assembly of The United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., will speak to a meeting of the Senior class Tuesday, April 27th, at 4:30 p.m. in Room 5 of Stuart Hall.

Dr. Blake is no stranger to Princeton. He is a graduate of Princeton University where he played guard on the Tiger football team. He received the Th.B. degree from Princeton Seminary in 1932. After pastorates in New York and experience as a teacher in India, he became pastor of the Pasadena Presbyterian Church in 1940. He was called to his present post as Stated Clerk in 1951.

He has held many posts in the ecumenical church, including the presidency of the National Council of Churches from 1954 to 1957. A sermon preached by Dr. Blake in Grace Cathedral in San Francisco on Dec. 4, 1960, led to the Consultation on Church Union. And at the meeting of the Consultation just concluded in Lexington, Kentucky, he was named a member of the committee to draft a plan of union.

Many colleges and universities have honored him with degrees and he is presently serving as a trustee of the Seminary.

Members of the Senior class are reminded by the Class Committee that this opportunity to hear Dr. Blake is an official class meeting. All Seniors are urged to attend.

International Student Dialogue Discussion

All American and International students are invited to participate in the final meeting in this year's series of student dialogues to be held on April 28 at the home of Mr. David L. Crawford. The topic for discussion is to be: "PERSPECTIVE ON AMERICAN LIFE . . . A LATER LOOK." Transportation will be provided, leaving the Campus Center at 6:45 and returning at 8:15.

Donald Barnhouse To Be Spring Conference Theme Speaker

Donald Barnhouse

Mr. Donald Barnhouse will be the featured speaker at the second Evangelistic Fellowship Spring Conference on Saturday, April 24. Mr. Barnhouse was a 1955 graduate of the seminary, a former teacher at Lawrenceville Academy, and a member of the Billy Graham team.

He is presently a news analyst for WCAU-TV in Philadelphia. He is a frequent speaker on world affairs in the area and is known for his incisive and thoughtful insights and comments on the world scene. He is also a particularly challenging speaker to youth, having been the main speaker at the Philadelphia presbytery winter youth rally.

The second conference will follow a format similar to the first. The theme address will be followed by discussion groups led by seminary students giving the young people a chance to reflect on the theme and share ideas. Miss Freda Gardner will conduct an advisors' seminar on leading a youth group and the fellowship officers will lead a group on, "What is Evangelism?" Terry Casteel, a junior at the seminary, will be the closing speaker.

Upwards of 400 high school young people are expected for this event.

Australian Churchman To Lecture Here

Alan Walker, Australian Methodist minister who in 1955 was awarded the Order of the British Empire for his leadership of the Australian "Mission to the Nation," will deliver two evening lectures at Princeton Seminary on Monday and Tuesday, April 26 and 27.

"Mission to Metropolis" will be the topic of the lectures, which will be delivered in the Seminary's Miller Chapel at 7:45 p.m., on both days. The addresses will deal with the mission of the Church in mass society.

Walker currently directs the Central Methodist Mission in Sydney, a city of 2,000,000 people, where he initiated a unique telephone service for persons with family, spiritual, personal or emotional problems. Central to the service, called the "Life Line Center," is the specialized follow-up program by which individuals seeking assistance are placed in continuing relationship with trained counselors.

Probably the best-known church figure in Australia, Walker is frequently on television and radio and quoted in the public press. His nation-wide television program "I Challenge the Minister" is an unrehearsed question-and-answer session with an audience of about half a million.

Walker also preaches weekly to a congregation of about 1,000 in a converted theater in Sydney. He was a delegate to the founding Assembly of the World Council of Churches in Amsterdam in 1948, and an advisor to the Third W.C.C. Assembly at New Delhi, India, in 1962. His preaching missions have included tours of South Africa, New Zealand, the U. S., and the Fiji Islands.

Some twenty books have appeared under his name, including the more recent God is Where You Are and How Jesus Helped People.

Graduated from Sydney University with the M.A. degree, he went on to theological studies at Leigh Theological College. Bethany Biblical Seminary of Chicago has honored him with the Doctor of Divinity degree. Before becoming

What Can I Do?

"What can I do?" This is the question many of us are asking in view of the civil rights movement. If you are seriously wrestling with this question, if you are seeking to broaden your pastoral experience, and finally, if you are gazing with eagerness towards this summer as the time interval for fulfilling these desires, then lend me your ear. Here are three opportunities which you should deeply consider:

I) STUDENT INTERRACIAL MINISTRY PROJECT
A project which is seeking to place white seminary students in Southern Negro churches and Negro seminary students in white churches for summer parish work. Its purposes involve providing a valuable contribution to the training of seminary students and fostering communication between Negro and white in our country within the context of the Christian Church.

II) DELTA MINISTRY PROGRAM (MISSISSIPPI)
A team ministry of laymen and clergy for various duties in Greenville, McComb and Hattiesburg.

III) PROJECTED PROGRAMS IN CATAWBA AND ATLANTIC SYNODS.

There are many more, but we are focusing attention on these three at the behest of CORAR (Commission of Religion and Race). For further information contact Jerry Stone.

Friday Night Flick

The drama of Tennessee Williams comes to the Campus Center Auditorium "a la flick" this Friday in the film, "Suddenly Last Summer." Elizabeth Taylor, Katherine Hepburn, and Montgomery Clift star in this dramatic and intriguing tale of conflict, deception, and surprise. Miss Taylor portrays a young woman confined to an institution for mentally ill as the result of a traumatic experience—the violent death of her young cousin. The girl's rich aunt (Katherine Hepburn) exerts pressure to have a brilliant young neurosurgeon perform a delicate brain operation which will give the girl peace in a transformed and docile personality. The surgeon's hesitation, caused by his doubt that the girl really needs the operation, sets off a series of violent events.

The Kiosk

by Blair Moffett

This columnist is having a deuce of a time sorting out his superlatives in an attempt to describe an exhibition by the artist Ansel Adams. Perhaps the title of the exhibition is its own best description: The Eloquent Light. The precision of this group of photographs reveals unmistakably the work of a master craftsman. This is an artist who so controls the techniques of his medium that it responds to all the nuances of his artistic expression. But he is not simply a skillful technician.

These photographs of natural splendors are obviously the work of a man familiar with his subject. When Adams turns his lens on nature it becomes a loving eye. Occasionally a photograph will give the impression that Adams sat patiently through the four seasons waiting for that precise moment. His own words reveal something of his sensitivity:

"To photograph truthfully and effectively is to see beneath the surface . . . Impression is not enough. Design, style, technique—these too are not enough. Art must reach further than impression or self-revelation. Art, said Alfred Stieglitz, is the affirmation of life. And life, or its eternal evidence is everywhere. . . . My photographs are presented here as ends in themselves, images of the endless moments of the world."

Unfortunately, you will have to hurry if you wish to see The Eloquent Light. The exhibition will be at the Interchurch Center, 475 Riverside Drive in New York only until April 25. From downtown Manhattan, take the BMT subway to 116th Street and walk to 120th Street. This show is worth some extra effort.

Intimate tragedy: The best drama isn't always to be found on Broadway. A case in point is Arthur Miller's A View from the Bridge. These days, emotion-laden themes such as racial prejudice, sexual perversion, or psychological strip-tease provide ready material for "powerful" drama. Sometimes, however, it is good to be reminded that people, in their ordinary homespuns, are complex individuals caught between powerful forces. In Miller's play, Robert Duvall portrays a rough longshoreman struggling to maintain his "pride." He has been raising his sister's daughter as a loving and responsible father. But his reluctance to let her grow up, to give up a satisfying emotional attachment, proves his tragic flaw. Like the hero of a classical Greek tragedy, he tries to keep his world under control, only to find that the forces of dissolution are beyond his power. Each desperate act only moves him closer to his fate.

in part to the intimacy of the theater. Rather than watching puppet-sized actors far below the top balcony of the Winter Garden, the audience finds itself surrounded by, and all but involved in, the action of the cast. When the audience is close enough to concentrate on gestures and facial expressions, the lack of spectacular scenery is hardly noticeable.

The Sheridan Square Playhouse is in Greenwich Village, a few steps from the 4th Street station of the 7th Ave. subway. The last local train uptown leaves about 11:00 p.m., so step lively after the show. One further blessing—tickets may be ordered by telephone.

Final Meeting Of Koinonia On April 30

A paper by Dr. Peter L. Berger of the New School for Social Research will be the occasion for the final meeting of KOINONIA on Friday, April 30, at 8 p.m. in Stevenson Lounge.

Dr. Berger is author of The Noise of Solemn Assemblies, The Precarious Vision, Invitation to Sociology, and a chapter in The Place of Bonhoeffer. In addition, he has written numerous articles on sociology of religion, sociology of knowledge, Israelite prophecy, and social ethics. His paper is entitled, "Sociology of Knowledge and Social Psychology."

Elections of new officers is now being arranged by President Donald Liebert. This year's cabinet included Terence Fretheim, Biblical Dept.; David Wiley, History Dept.; Warren Lane, Practical Dept.; and Charles Partee, Theology Dept.

The year's programs have centered on dialogue on controversial issues in the theological world. A conversation between Drs. Shaull and Wyckoff on "The Form of the Church" initiated the year's program. Dialogue between Drs. Walter Kauffman and John Hick on "The Nature of Religious Faith" sparked discussion for the second meeting. Dr. James Nichols reported on the Vatican Council at the annual Koinonia Christmas banquet. During the second semester programs involved Drs. Paul Lehmann and Paul Ramsey arguing "Ethics in a Christian Context?", and Father Roland Murphy (editor of the Catholic Biblical Quarterly) and Dr. James Barr conversing on "Scripture and Tradition."

Koinonia is comprised by all members of the Seminary doctoral program, and all faculty members are invited to the meetings. Guests of Koinonia members are welcome at all meetings. Special guests for this meeting with Dr. Berger include faculty and students from the Department of Sociology and Anthropology of Princeton University.

New Confession To Be Discussed At Wednesday Meeting

The "Confession of 1967," a proposed new statement of belief for the United Presbyterian Church, will be discussed at a meeting on Thursday, April 29, at 7:15 p.m. in the Main Lounge of the Campus Center.

Professor Edward A. Dowey, who chairs the General Assembly Committee that has drafted the new confession, will speak on the document. Professors George Hendry and Charles West will serve as critics, and the session will include a discussion period.

The meeting is sponsored by the Theological Society of the Student Council.

The full text of the Confession of 1967 is printed in the May 1 issue of Presbyterian Life, which is available in the basement of Stuart Hall beside the entrance to the Theological Book Agency. Additional reprints of the Confession will be available, beginning Monday, April 26, in the Office of the Assistant to the President. The document has been six years in preparation.

The document will be a prime topic of debate at the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church next month in Columbus, Ohio. Presbyterian procedure calls for the report of the drafting committee to go before the Assembly. If approved, it will be submitted to a Study Committee of fifteen. The Study Committee will seek comment from the entire constituency of the denomination, and report on its work at the 1966 General Assembly.

If three-fourths of the 1966 Assembly approve a text, it will be submitted to the Presbyteries for study and approval.

If a sufficient number of Presbyteries approve the text, it will go back to the 1967 General Assembly, where a successful vote will make it a part of the Church's Constitution.

At any step in this process the document may be ammended or revised. 1967 is the earliest date at which adoption as an official confessional standard is possible.

Professor van Buren To Speak at Graduate College

Sunday, April 25: Professor Paul van Buren, Department of Religion, Temple University, "A Secular Theology," New Common Room, The Graduate College, Princeton University, 7:30 p.m. The Seminary community is invited.

WINESKIN SUPPLEMENT

The current issue of the WINESKIN includes the calendar for the week after Easter. However, the following additions and corrections are to be added.

GENERAL EXAMINATIONS THIS SPRING: Those who will take a general examination in May should register during the week following Easter. Middlers and Juniors who are taking June general examinations should register no later than May 15. For those who are planning to take the fall ones, although they are not expected to register immediately, it would be very helpful if they would do so within the next couple of weeks. (Registrar's Office)

I. B. SISSEL TO SPEAK HERE: On Monday, April 19 at 6:00 p.m. Dr. H. B. Sissel will speak at a dinner-discussion meeting in the Small Dining Room on the topic, "People, Politics and Public Policy." Dr. Sissel is well qualified to speak about the complexities of the political process. He is secretary for National Affairs in the Washington Office of Church and Society. As part of his professional responsibility Mr. Sissel is in charge of liaison work in the fields of civil rights, civil liberties and church-state relations. On the staff of Social Progress, he has contributed many articles to it and other publications. Experience in local politics as an office-holder and a pastorate in downtown Detroit give Mr. Sissel perspective for understanding the political process, its power and usefulness. All members of the seminary are invited to attend. (Church and Society Committee)

OUSING INQUIRIES: Off-campus housing inquiries are coming in rapidly both formally and informally. So that we won't overlook you, please stop by 109 Hodge and fill out a housing questionnaire, especially all of those who have visited with us outside the office. (Deane Tucker and Bill Sheppard, Housing Office)

CONOMISTS WANTED: Seven USA graduate students in business administration, economics, presently in business who are interested in trade and development of industry in Latin America are needed to attend a three-week consultation in Mexico City during August, 1965. All expenses will be paid. Other students with such interests or business training may be eligible. Spanish-speaking applicants will be given priority. Nominate applicants to: Mr. L. G. Clough, National Student Christian Federation, Room 752, 475 Riverside Drive, New York 10027.

HAPEL LEADERS FOR THE WEEK:

Tuesday, April 20	Dr. James Barr
Wednesday, April 21	Rev. Paul Rutgers, Minister, First Presbyterian Church, Pitman, New Jersey, Moderator of Synod of New Jersey
Thursday, April 22	Walter Clarke and Don McNamara
Friday, April 23	George Doering and Ivan Barker

ATECHISM EXAMINATION: On Monday, April 19, at 5:00 p.m. the Examination on the Shorter Catechism will be administered in the Homiletics Seminar Room. (Dr. Lacleod)

James Leighton Carter is a middler from Webster Groves, Missouri. He is a native son of the Show-Me state who was born in Poplar Bluff, Missouri, twenty-three years ago. Jim is a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Kirkwood, Missouri, and he is under care of the Presbytery of St. Louis.

Jim graduated from Kirkwood High School in 1959. He received his A.B. degree from Westminster College at Fulton, Missouri, in 1963. At Westminster he served as President of the Junior Class, Secretary-Treasurer of the Student Council, and was a member of the Academic Honor Commission as well as participating in several religious and cultural interest groups. He held the offices of Historian and Corresponding Secretary in his fraternity, Phi Gamma Delta.

Jim's experience in the ranks of the gainfully employed presents an interesting variety. In his student days he has worked as a dining hall busboy in a girls' college, grocery clerk, telephone lineman, shoe packer, tour escort for cross-country tours, and as a substitute mail carrier at Christmastime.

At Princeton Seminary Jim is a Chapel Deacon and a member of the Committee on Ecumenics and Mission. Last year he was a member of the Touring Choir. He also works in the Mail Order department of the Theological Book Agency.

Campus To Vote For Council Officers

Student Council officers for the 1965-66 school year will be elected by the student body on Monday, May 3. Nominations for the three positions of president, vice-president, and treasurer were made at the annual meeting of the student body last Monday.

During the national elections last fall THE WINESKIN took a strong editorial stand. This newspaper came out four-square for voting. In this issue we reaffirm that position. Student government on the campus of Princeton Theological Seminary is only as strong and vital as the interest of the students makes it. You know that without our telling you. We encourage you to talk to the candidates for Student Council offices to discover their ideas for your school. We urge you to consider their ideas. We urge to make up your mind and support the candidates that you feel can do the job. And we urge you to express your decision at the ballot box on Monday, May 3.

James L. Carter and David W. Wills, both members of the Middler Class, are running for the office of president. Mark Rohloff, R. Kennan Smith, and Jeff Wampler are in a three race for the vice-presidency. The candidates for treasurer are Charles C. Martin and Ted Voelker. THE WINESKIN includes information about the background of the presidential aspirants elsewhere on this page.

All three candidates for vice-president are juniors. Rohloff is from Hollywood, California, and is a graduate of the University of California at Los Angeles. Smith is from Jacksonville, Florida, and is an alumnus of Princeton University. Wampler claims Davidson College as his alma mater, and his home is in Harrisonburg, Virginia.

Chuck Martin, a middler, is from Swarthmore, Pennsylvania. He is a graduate of Swarthmore College and also holds a Masters degree from Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He is married, and he and his wife Anne have three children. He was employed

DAVID W. WILLS

David Wood Wills was born in Portland, Indiana, but he now claims Princeton as home. The twenty-three year old middler is a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Portland, and he is under care of the Wabash River Presbytery. He and his wife Carolyn were married last summer.

David was a 1958 graduate of Monrovia High School, Monrovia, California. He received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Yale University in 1962. At Yale he was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, served as vice-president of the Yale Young Democrats, and was active in various religious organizations and groups.

Dave's interest in history and government have been tangibly expressed by his employment as a substitute mail carrier, and as a film inspector and shipper for the Los Angeles County Board of Education. For one year after his Yale graduation, he was a Carnegie Teaching Fellow in Yale's Department of History.

During his seminary days Dave has served as president of Middler Class. He has been a member of the Faith and Life, and Church and Society Committees. For two years he has been a member of the editorial board of VIEWPOINT, and he is on the staff of the Theological Book Agency.

A Wineskin Editorial . . .

A short treatise on the distinguishing opportunities for a true involvement in the continuing struggle for equal rights on the local level or a demythologization of the bandwagon concept.

By Dick Fiete

Events of the past few weeks have caused an unprecedented stir for action among members of the seminary community. All at once we realized that little was known of ways for students to be involved here, now, existentially on the local scene. No need to be in the dark any longer. The cymbal clashing is over; the bandwagon has carried us to at least our first stop. If Selma is to have meaning for us at all it must point at least to our responsibility in this area where we are living. Perhaps the bandwagon made so much noise that it woke you up; maybe you're one who'd like a little less noise and a little more performance. Well, here's your chance to step into one of the three rings: Hightstown.

Have an hour or two a week to be personally involved in a face to face relationship? Great! The going program in Hightstown can use tutors in math, English, and Spanish. This involves helping jr. and sr. high students once a week. You can arrange your own time and meeting place, or if you like the school has opened its cafeteria from 7:00 to 9:00 Tuesday evenings for such use. Whether you decide to help here or not may well be a determining factor in a Hightstown student's life as to whether or not he will "make the scene" on his scheduled graduation day.

The Hightstown Human Relations Council also has a program for reading to primary children after school, taking them occasionally to the zoo or a concert, etc. in order to stimulate and inform them in areas they have little contact with through their home life. This program could well use volunteer help.

For those whose escape clause is that they just can't give time on a regular basis there is another possibility. For five years a Cranbury Negro has been trying to rennovate his house. The Cranbury Housing Association has come to his aid. They have a solid financial backing but need volunteer help on weekends. A good many have come for one day or an afternoon and contributed but the house still has a long way to go. Anyone can swing a hammer or swish a paint brush for a Saturday (or a Sunday if your faith allows). A half a dozen volunteers can be used here any weekend. You can even bring your senior high youth group. The only way the Cranbury money can really be put to work is for volunteers to pitch in and stir the pot. I think the Seminary community has the ladle to do it.

More programs are in the offing as regards housing, voter registration, and education but one of the chief reasons for holding back in these areas has been a scarcity of volunteers. Whether you can give an hour or several a week, or even a full time commitment for the summer here is an opportunity to get off that bandwagon of talking about what could be done, or what should be done, or what is wrong with the tactics of the civil rights movement in general, and put your convictions to work in a significant way. See me anytime or call me at home (488-0438) or let the Wineskin know about your interest and YOU can be working next week!

Books on Sale

On sale this week are the books of the Westminister New Testament Library. This series presents scholarly contributions to the study of the New Testament such as the following:

Oscar Cullmann, The Christology of the New Testament, 1959, 346 p. Norman Perrin, The Kingdom of God in the Teching of Jesus, 1963, 215 pages

John MacDonald, The Theology of the Samaritans, 1964, 479 pages

Gunther Bornkamn, Gerhard Barth, Heinz Joachim Held, Tradition and Interpretation in Matthew, 1963, 307 pages

All these books are published by Westminister Press: Philadelphia. Cullmann's book is on the B. D. syllabus. Perrin's book starts with Schweitzer's claim that Jesus was the prophet of a kingdom which never materialized. It then presents critically the more important counter proposals made since.

There is still a table set up holding a selection of books for one dollar. In some cases these were originally priced at four or five dollars and the selection changes occasionally.

Financial Aid Reminder

Applications for financial aid for the 1965-66 academic year are available in the Office of the Assistant to the President, James E. Andrews.

All returning students who expect to apply for assistance, whether in the form of loans or grants, are requested to complete an application and schedule a preliminary conference before leaving the campus.

Students will experience difficulty and delay in initiating an application for assistance in the Fall. Even where such factors as summer employment and field education for next year are still not final, the application must be begun before May 15.

Dr. Paul Scherer To Be University Chapel Preacher

Dr. Paul Scherer

Dr. Paul Scherer of the Princeton Seminary faculty will be the preacher this Sunday, May 2 at the Princeton University Chapel. His sermon is entitled, "They That Wait for the Lord."

Dr. Scherer, a minister of the United Lutheran Church, has been Guest Professor of Homiletics at Princeton Theological Seminary since September, 1961. He was for fourteen years the Brown Professor of Homiletics at Union Theological Seminary in New York City, retiring in 1960.

Professor Scherer, often called the "greatest preacher in America," spent twenty-five years as a pastor before taking up his second career of training theological students in the field of preaching.

Graduating from the College of Charleston, S. C. with a B.A. degree in 1911 and with the M.A. degree (magna cum laude) in 1913, Scherer attended the Lutheran Theological Seminary, earning the Bachelor of Divinity degree in 1916. He spent one year as assistant pastor of the Holy Trinity Church in Buffalo, N. Y., and in 1920 became pastor of Holy Trinity Church in New York City, where he served until 1945. During the years 1919 and 1929 he also served as an instructor at Mt. Airy Theological Seminary in Pennsylvania.

Dr. Scherer was the preacher for the Sunday Vespers radio series from 1932 to 1945, and has published six volumes of sermons: When God Hides, Facts That Undergird Life, The Place Where Thou Standest, For We Have This Treasure, Event in Eternity, and Plight of Freedom. He was an associate editor of The Interpreter's Bible. Honorary doctorates have been awarded to Dr. Scherer by a number of colleges and universities.

Consultation On Theology And The Urban Church To Convene At Princeton Seminary

George Webber and Robert Weaver Are Guest Speakers

The Spring Consultation on Theology and the Urban Church will be convened at Princeton Seminary on May 14. The Consultation provides an opportunity for the Seminary faculty and pastors cooperating with the Princeton Seminary Urban Project to discuss urban problems confronting the Church today.

The address to be delivered after dinner by Dr. Robert C. Weaver, Administrator of Housing and Home Finance, will be open to the student body. This address will be delivered at 6:45 p.m. from the veranda adjacent to the dining hall. Students are invited to remain in the dining hall for the address.

Dr. Weaver, who holds the Ph.D. degree from Harvard University, has been particularly active in urban housing affairs in New York State and on the national scene, is the former chairman of the NAACP, and is the author of several books, including The Negro Ghetto.

Dr. George W. Webber's recent book, The Congregation in Mission, will serve as the focus for the Consultation. Dr. Webber received his B.D. and Ph.D. degrees from Union Seminary and Columbia University respectively, was one of the founders and is currently part of the group ministry of the East Harlem Protestant Parish, and has served as Dean of Students and Associate Professor at Union Seminary in New York.

Professor Charles West will discuss Webber's book from a theological perspective and Dr. Webber will reply to the discussion of his recent work. Seminars following the discussion will be led by members of the Seminary faculty, Profs. Beker, Blizzard, Lapsley, Loder, Migliore, and Willis.

Professor James Nichols will deliver the luncheon address which will be on the topic, "The Inner City Church and Ministry from the Perspective of a Church Historian."

In the afternoon session Dr. Charles T. Leber, Director of Urban Mission for the Presbytery of New York City, will discuss The Congregation in Mission from the standpoint of its proposals for the urban church. Seminars will be led by pastors and staff cooperating with the Urban Project, Lawrence Black, Lacy Harwell, Thomas Luce, Conrad Massa, David Romig, and Eugene Turner.

Campus To Vote For Officers

by the Sun Oil Company for several years before entering the seminary in 1963. Ted Voelker is originally from New Orleans, Louisiana, and is an alumnus of Louisiana State University. After four years as an officer in the United States Army, including a tour of duty in France, Voelker worked for a year in New York before entering the seminary in 1964.

Voting will begin at 9:00 a.m. Monday, May 3, and continue until 4:00 p.m. The polling place will be on the first floor of Stuart Hall except during the lunch hour, when the booths and ballot box will be moved to the foyer of the Campus Center. The Campus Center location will be used from 12:45 to 1:45 p.m. All regularly enrolled students are eligible to vote. Election results will be posted and announced at 6:00 p.m., Monday, May 3.

CLASS ELECTIONS

Next week Juniors and Middlers will elect their class officers for the coming year. Both meetings are scheduled for 1:45 p.m. This Wednesday, May 5, Juniors will meet in the Campus Center Auditorium. Midllers will meet in Room 5, Stuart Hall.

Election Run-off Possibility

There are three candidates for the office of Vice-President of the Student Body. In the event that the first ballot fails to produce a majority, a second ballot will be taken on the two highest candidates. This run-off will be announced at supper Monday, and will be held on Tuesday, May 4. Off-campus students are invited to watch for notices to this effect on Tuesday morning.

Shelby Rooks To Speak Here On Race Question

On Thursday evening, May 6, at 7:00 p.m. the Reverend C. Shelby Rooks will speak informally to the student body in the Main Lounge on several aspects of the race problem. Mr. Rooks brings a unique and challenging perspective to this topic and comes as one who can offer fresh insights into certain dimensions of the total question.

Mr. Rooks, a Negro, has been educated in the public schools of New Jersey, New York and Virginia, Virginia State College, Union Seminary and Columbia University. Currently Associate Director for The Fund for Theological Education, he has served pastorates in New York, Washington, D. C. and Norfolk, Virginia. His present positions include membership on the Commission of Higher Education, National Council of Churches, the Theological Commission of the United Church of Christ and the Board of Directors of the United Southern Christian Fellowship.

Mr. Rooks has studied, written and spoken extensively on the topic of the Negro and education. He has made a detailed survey of Negro Ph.D.'s and Th.D.'s, their quality of work, field of study and current employment, and of Negro B.D. students enrolled each year in the member schools of the American Association of Theological Schools. His articles include "We Can't Ignore the Negro Campus" in the Presbyterian Survey and "The Shortage of Negro B.D. Students" in the Union Seminary Tower.

In his comments at Princeton Mr. Rooks will speak particularly to the role of the white person in the racial struggle. A considerable part of the program will be devoted to questions and discussion from the floor.

by Blair Moffett

In case you hadn't noticed, 'tis the season when fancy turns to thoughts of what lies outside library windows and how little time there is before the cataclysm. Of course, other seasonal thoughts occasionally intrude. But if the lack of artsy scuttlebutt is any indication, scholarly duties have lurched awkwardly to the fore.

To dangle tempting, you-gotta-see-it tid bits before you at this crucial time obviously would be less than kind. Please accept my apologies for mentioning the following release from McCarter Theatre:

"The Princeton Chamber Orchestra will be in the pit when McCarter Theatre and the Princeton Symphony present the American Premiere of Handel's opera "Imeneo" on Monday, May 3 at 8:30 p.m. The professional 21 piece string ensemble will be under the baton of J. Merrill Knapp for the single performance, and tickets are now available from the McCarter box office.

"In contrast to the usual practice, "Imeneo" will be a fully-staged production directed by Mark Healy, who only recently won plaudits for his version of Britten's opera "A Midsummer Night's Dream" at the New York City Center. The cast of five principal singers will include two prominent concert artists, Bethany Beardslee and Janice Harsanyi. Miss Beardslee is known as one of the leading interpreters of contemporary vocal music, while Mrs. Harsanyi is a frequent soloist with such prominent ensembles as the Philadelphia Orchestra."

Happy fancies!

Synod Men Meet At At St. Andrews

Princeton Seminary students have received a special invitation to the Annual Conference of the New Jersey Synod Council of Presbyterian Men. The meeting will be held at St. Andrew's (formerly Second) Presbyterian Church in Princeton on Saturday, May 1 from 9:00 a.m. till 4:00 p.m.

Several outstanding addresses will be given by prominent speakers on the conference theme, "Evangelism." The Reverend John Murray, Associate Synod Executive, and the Reverend Hugh Liftton, pastor of St. Andrew's and Chairman of the Synod Committee on Evangelism, will speak prior to the major theme address by Phil Hitchcock, Executive Secretary of the National Council of United Presbyterian Men. There will be ample opportunity for sharing of thoughts and insights in the "talk-it-over" sessions that will follow each address.

United Presbyterian Men is the name of the all-inclusive fellowship of men in the United Presbyterian Church. The several levels of the organization are chapters in particular churches, councils of United Presbyterian Men in presbyteries and synods, and the National Council. This meeting will serve to introduce seminary students to the organization and purpose of United Presbyterian Men.

Those planning to attend are asked to notify the church office at St. Andrew's Church as soon as possible.

Conference on Poverty Scheduled at Douglass

A statewide conference on the theme "Poverty in New Jersey" will be held on Sunday, May 2 from 9:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. at Douglass College. Seminarians are welcome to register for these discussions concerning the scope of the problem of poverty in New Jersey and the methods to be used by government and voluntary organizations to cope with it.

The registration fee of $2.00 for students and $3.00 for non-students includes the cost of lunch, supper and conference expenses. The conference will introduce possibilities for student participation in the attack on poverty. It is sponsored by the Rutgers-Douglass Chapter of the Students for a Democratic Society.

Those interested in attending the conference should contact David Wiley (20 Dickenson Street, Apartment A-2, 924-6611) or write directly to the registrar, sending name, address and registration fee to: Conference, Box 202-37, Wilcox Hall, Princeton University.

by Ken Parker

Spring is in the air and the softballs are flying. The inter-muraler's dusted off the cobwebs and took to the field this past Wednesday. The cheers went up as the league's umpire, Dudley ("can't see his knees") Rose called "play ball" and another season was underway.

Brown continued to exert their muscles by tucking away a fine 15-9 win over Hodge and thus secured a tie for first place in the league at this early date. The Off-campus team showed signs of new life as they battered Alex by a score of 9-2. The battery of McAfee and Friend kept the Alex team away from any dangerous threats as Dick's suberb control held the Alexers to only two hits.

The schedule for the remaining games is posted in the foyer of the Campus Center. If all goes well each team will play three games and a championship game will be held between the teams with the best won-loss record. In the event of a rain-out, this championship game will not be played and the day will be used for the make-up game. In this event, the team with the best won-loss record will be considered the Champs.

Tennis regulations on the University courts will be posted as soon as such regulations are made available.

Anyone who has in his possession any Seminary athletic equipment is asked to return it to the box in the foyer of the campus center. This includes volleyballs, footballs, basketballs and uniforms that have been used in the past seasons. In order to insure future athletic programs we need all our equipment back. Thank you.

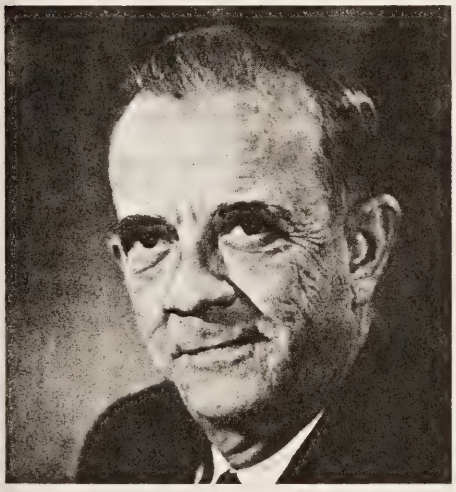
Skinner To Be Speaker Wednesday Evening on Problem of Extremism



Dr. Robert Skinner

Dr. Robert Skinner, Vice-President of the Seminary, will be the third in a series of speakers presented by the Church and Society Committee on the general theme, "The Church Challenged by a Complex Society." Dr. Skinner's topic will be "Extremism: Challenge or Chaos?" The meeting will be held in the Main Lounge of the Campus Center, Wednesday, May 12 at 7:00 p.m.

What are the methods and motives of the extreme groups which often threaten the effective witness of the Church? What can be done about them? Dr. Skinner brings to the problem extensive experience in the pastorate. For ten years preceding his coming to Princeton, he was minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Amarillo, Texas; before that, twelve years in Westfield, New Jersey. From this perspective of the local church, Dr. Skinner will discuss the growth and development of extremism, and suggest some means of dealing with it. Questions and open discussion will be welcome.

Carter, Rohloff and Martin Elected 1965-66 Student Council Officers

Student Council officers for the academic year, 1965-66, were elected in balloting last Monday and Tuesday. 267 students went to the polls and either crammed or slid their ballots into the box.

James L. Carter of Webster Groves, Missouri, was named President. Mark Rohloff of Hollywood, California, won a run-off battle on Tuesday to assume the Vice-Presidency. The new Treasurer is Charles Martin of Swarthmore, Pennsylvania. Carter and Martin will be Seniors next year, and Rohloff will be a Middler.

Carter was introduced to the members of the Student Body who eat in the Campus Center by retiring President Ken Ralph. Carter spoke of his desire to view his office as one of servanthood to the Student Body and his hope that the Council will listen to and be listened to by the Student Body. He also said that he hopes to see the vitality of this year's Council carried into next year.

The remaining members of the Council will be appointed by the President. Jim Carter also expressed the appreciation of the Student Body to Ken Ralph and other members of the retiring Council. These include: Gene Augustine, Marcy Mead, Norman Myer, Ken MacLeod, Rich Thyne, Jack Schutte, Doug Loving, Ted Scott, Howard Friend, Elinor Kirkland, Ernie Freund, David Wills, and Jeff Wampler.

All Seminary Picnic

This Monday, May 10 the annual seminary picnic will be held at Marquand Park. The faculty-student softball game will be played at 4:00 p.m. and dinner will be served at 5:30. Cost $1.50 with special rates for children.

Oratorio Choir, Brown, Korn To Give Recitals

The Princeton Seminary Oratorio Choir, under the direction of Dr. David Hugh Jones, will present the "Sacred Service" (Avodath Hakodesh) by Ernest Bloch in Miller Chapel on Tuesday evening, May 11 at 7:45 p.m.

As a prelude to the service, at 7:30 p.m., Michael Korn, a brilliant young organist from the Westminster Choir College, will play several ancient Hebrew melodies arranged for the organ by Ernest Bloch.

S. T. Kimbrough will be the cantor, Keitha Needham, soprano and Paul Evans, recitant.

Grear, Towne and Casteel To Head Fellowship Group

The Evangelistic Fellowship has announced the election of its new officers for the 1965-66 academic year, according to the Dean of Field Education, Arthur Adams. Dick Grear will succeed Howard Friend as president; Verne Towne will follow Grear as secretary; and Terry Casteel will succeed Dick Kimbrough as treasurer and spring conference chairman.

"It's good to see the center of gravity in the Fellowship continue to move eastward," commented Grear upon hearing of his election. "I hope to continue the policies of this year with a special attempt to broaden the scope and perspective of the total program."

Casteel, a team captain this year, said, "Our work with the fellowship as a team has been the most valuable experience of the junior year and I am anxious to work in the administration of the program." "I hope that through an expanded program developed along the same lines as this years' we can involve even more people," added Towne.

Aid for Chilema Lay Training Center

Bruce and Sandy Boston, who are Princeton Seminary students presently serving in a Frontier Internship in Malawi, Africa (formerly Nyasaland), have written telling of the opportunities and needs which confront them in their work. The most pressing need is for financial aid for the inter-denominational lay training center at Chilema, which presently suffers from a lack of funds for both scholarships and library books. The importance of the Center may be seen in the fact that it is the only one of its kind in Malawi, and has the task of training Christian laymen in pastoral duties which often devolve on them because of the shortage of ordained ministers. Also, the Center has the parallel responsibility of vocational guidance and training for numbers of men, women and youth both within and without the church.

It is the Stewardship Committee's conviction that the seminary community can and should respond to this appeal and assist the growth of Christ's church in an area where it is young and struggling. On-campus students will have the opportunity to contribute to a Princeton Fund for the Chilema Center at mealtimes in the Campus Center on Monday and Tuesday, May 10 and 11. Off-campus persons will receive pre-addressed envelopes through which they may contribute. Faculty and administrative personnel may subscribe to the Fund at the receptionist's desk in the Administrative Building on the above dates. Checks may be made out to the Chilema Lay Training Center.

Final Friday Night Flick

The Friday Flick Series will present its final film on May 14 amidst hilarious comedy and intrigue. The film is The Notorious Landlady and stars Kim Novak, Jack Lemmon, and Fred Astaire. It is a movie filled with side-splitting suspense and delightful confusion. Jack Lemmon rents a room in London from Kim Novak and is immediately entrenched in a Scotland Yard case. Lemmon is astonished to find that Scotland Yard suspects Kim Novak of murdering her husband. Since the body has not been found, the Yard pressures a reluctant Lemmon into spying on his landlady. Riotous fun begins when he catches her with the body. She didn't do it (of course not!) and Lemmon ends up with more suspects than he can shake a stick at.

Don't miss this last of the series. Friday, May 14th at 7:15 p.m. in the Campus Center Auditorium. Single admission is 50¢.

A Letter of Thanks from The Evangelistic Fellowship

The dust has settled, the campus has survived, and everything is about back to normal—the annual Spring Conferences of the Evangelistic Fellowship are over! Approximately seven hundred high school young people attended the two events this year, a record number.

The success of these conferences was due to the combined effort of many people; perhaps too many to name here. We thank especially the committee chairmen and their staffs who worked in organizing discussion groups, workshop-seminars, registration, entertainment and the like. Tony Aspras was his usual helpful and at times forbearing self in preparing the picnic lunch.

Our special thanks is extended to those who took the time to welcome the students, show them our campus, and answer their many questions about seminary life.

History Colloquium Meets To Discuss Nichols' Article

The final meeting of the year of the informal History Department colloqium will be held on Tuesday, May 13 at 8:00 p.m. at the home of Dr. James Nichols, 350 Herrontown Road, Princeton, according to Don Mitchell and Dave Wiley.

The meeting is open to all faculty and doctoral students of the history department. Rides will be available from the campus center at 7:45 p.m. the night of the meeting.

The topic of the evening will be a consideration of Dr. Nichols' new chapter on American Church History in Religion, edited by Paul Ramsey. Copies will be distributed to members and should be read prior to the meeting.

New Trenton Group to Aid in Urban Problems

"Koinonia" is a group of religiously oriented Ministers and Laymen who are working toward understanding and reconciliation among all groups in the Trenton area. They plan to achieve their end through bringing together individuals and groups from all faiths and ethnic backgrounds in order to share ideas and viewpoints so as to develop an atmosphere of sympathy, respect, and cooperation in dealing with the complex problems of urban life and the areas of potential conflict.

On May 8, "Koinonia" is sponsoring "Voices, Inc., Musical Theater" which presents in dramatic form the contributions which Negroes as persons have made to American life. They believe that this indirect approach has real merit in helping the people of the community, white and Negro alike, to appreciate the heritage of the Negro people and to develop a positive attitude toward the Negro as an individual.

"Koinonia" will present "The Voices" in the auditorium of Junior School No. 3 in Trenton on Saturday, May 8, 1965, at 8:00 p.m.

The Voices, Inc., Musical/Theatre is comprised of eight actor-singers whose

The WINESKIN staff—at work for you

End of the Beginning; Farewell and Thanks

by the Editor

It's over before it really got started—so the saying goes. The first year in the life of WINESKIN has sped by, to say nothing of the three years of seminary education. The much detoured road ahead is now a trodden path. Farewells are in order.

In the past two years there has been a population explosion among PTS publications. Fathered by the initiative of several students and nourished by the faithful contributions of others, three separate publications have been born.

VIEWPOINT was the direct result of a bull session among some present seminary seniors last year. Moved by its purpose of intellectual and spiritual stimulation and "give and take" it has become the sounding board for many a student and his opinion. Moods, concerns and criticisms, which once were divisive and submerged on this campus, were able to become the subject of open, lively and, hopefully, constructive debate.

The moving force behind this medium of student and faculty expression is a board of editors which includes Dwyn Mounger, Ted Scott, David Wills, John Galloway and Randy Nichols. Each is a frequent contributor and diligent editor; and do they have dialogue on the staff!

DIMENSION, a student theological journal, was originally a product of the theological society. Motivated by the conviction that in order for theological education to achieve the utmost in excellence, it should and must provide and encourage the opportunity for original thought, Clayton Carlson and Ray Lindquist have worked long and hard to produce the years' two journals.

WINESKIN, the baby of the family, was born in a vacuum, the need for an effective means of promotion and announcement. Since its first issue in October it has broadened its horizons to include a regular sports column, book reviews, an art and drama critique and occasional editorials.

Norman Myer and Elinor Kirkland have "gone the extra mile" and then some in their work on the WINESKIN staff. Their sensitive nose for a story and lively literary style have infused the creative quality into these pages. Elinor, our feature specialist, will be especially remembered for her "Profiles." Norm penned many of our front page leads and major promotion pieces.

Blair Moffett has done yeoman duty acting both as photographer and Kiosk critic. He has lent insight and precision in both capacities. "Poison Pen" Ken Parker has kept us informed on the activities of the seminary athletes, whom he has kept busy with his ambitious calendar of events. Finally, Walt Williams has been reviewer of the books on sale at the Theological Book Agency.

As editor, I thank each of these members of the publication staff for their creativity, diligence, faithfulness and good humor. The atmosphere of any campus is a product of many subtle formative forces which work in combination to create the prevailing mood. Those to whom I am offering my gratitude have made their contribution to the current healthy mood of this campus.

That Was The Wineskin That Was

by the Associate Editors

What happens when an editor that's never done any editing starts a newspaper that's never existed before—without a staff? Well, he finds a friend who's never done any newspapering either. And then they find another friend who likes to write but who's also never done any newspapering. They meet to pool their enthusiasm and nearly lose it for lack of a name. Having rejected such titles as "The Spectrum," "Kalendar," "Weekly Bulletin," and above all, "The Seminarian," and innumerable other sparkling suggestions, they decided that each week your campus news should come to you a la "THE WINESKIN."

Like your Bookstore bill, we grew. As the campus program increased, we turned our attention to everything from intramural ping-pong to exhibits of Aboriginal Art. We tempted you with culture from McCarter to Manhattan. We told you of speakers. We invited you to pick a pew in Miller Chapel for lectures and extended services. Speaking of the Chapel, we told you of the new organ that was found and the Pulpit Bible that was lost. We tantalized you with reports of meetings, moderators, music, Dr. McCord, movies, Mardi Gras, and other mayhem, especially our moving.

None of these momentous cataclysms and highly significant occurrences in the burgeoning life of the Seminary community have been related to our readers without a high degree of travail, turmoil, and sanguine effort. MAN, LIKE IT WASN'T EASY! Just doing it week by week was bad enough, but inventing those lectureships for copy? . . . we needed Christmas vacation! Apparently, our Editor-in-Chief needed more. He got sick, consequently the Associate Editors got sick! The diagnoses were different though. We can tell you how those issues during his absence got put together . . . but you wouldn't believe it!

Elsewhere in this issue is a picture of our staff, hard at work preparing the weekly WINESKIN. And the thanks of everyone on our team go to our ex officio staff members, our readers. You've been quick to point out the original sin in our typewriters, but you've been generous with your praise and support. Thanks a whole pile!

And THAT WAS THE WINESKIN THAT WAS!

Oratorio Choir, Brown, Korn Organ Recitals

dent pupil at the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia the next season.

Recitalist for May 20—Michael Korn

Michael Korn is a brilliant young organist from Harrisburg, Pennsylvania and winner of the Pennsylvania State American Guild of Organist organ playing competition. Mr. Korn, who is a pupil of Dr. Alexander McCurdy of Westminster Choir College, has been invited to give a recital at St. Thomas' Church in New York City next October. This is a signal honor because very few young organist receive such an invitation.

by Ken Parker

As the academic year draws closer to finals comps and graduation the sports world quietly subsides. The current news finds Brown Hall and the seasonal rival Off-campus team in a dead heat for the softball title. Cautious speculation says that the strong arm of Dick McAfee will be too much for the Brownies to overcome and they will be forced to second place.

The trophy presented to the outstanding club of the season goes to Brown Hall but by a slim margin. An Off-campus team took a first in football with Brown far down on the standings. In the winter Reutter and company dominated the hardwoods until a resurgent Off-campus team came from way back to grab second place and knock off the lead pacesetters. In Volleyball Brown scored ahead of the Off-camus team but shared winning money with a faculty grad team. This brings us to the spring season and a win by the Off-campus team would make the overall picture a really tight one. Further Alex had a strong football team which knocked off the powerhouse from the suburbs and took a share of the title.

Our Varsity basketball team did a fine job all winter and wound up with a commendable winning record.

The past year has proved to be a good one in the world of athletics, there is much to be improved upon but we have had a lot of fun. Many people participated in the Ice Skating party held at the Princeton Bowl and had a really fine time. At the other extreme was the rather limited participation at the Splash Party held at the YMCA but those 8 that did come had a good time.

It has been my privilege as Athletic Director to witness some great games and some near-great games and to watch some great athletes in action and some near great ones. But all in all it has been a good year.

Books on Sale

On sale is the entire International Critical Commentary Series. This is probably the best know set of commentaries next to the Interpreter's Bible. Each volume has a different author and for many of the books of the Bible the ICC is the best commentary available. On the list of commentaries prepared by Professors Macleod, Barr and Kuist the ICC is highly rated for Genesis, Numbers, Deuteronomy, Judges and Ruth, I & II Kings, Daniel, Galatians, Ephesians, I & II Thessalonians, Hebrews, and Peter & Jude. It is wise to buy now rather than wait a year because every shipment received from England is usually victim of the rapidly rising prices on commentaries there. The difference between shipments may be as much as two dollars and fifty cents.

Macleod Book Available

Dr. Donald Macleod's new book, Presbyterian Worship, is now available in the bookstore. This book will provide a handy guide and theological rationale for the various aspects of Presbyterian worship. Due in part to the prevailing ecumenical atmosphere in the church, the emphasis for some time has been on the non-denominational approach to the subject. Dr. Macleod provides a very much needed and helpful handbook for the parish minister or any leader in worship in the reformed tradition.

Commencement Invitations

Commencement invitations will be distributed from #109 Hodge Hall between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, May 10 and 11 only. All degree recipients are entitled to five invitations apiece. Those who have ordered extras will be expected to pay for and pick up their order on one of these two days.

performances are encased in the explanatory commentary of their narrator. This musical and dramatic ensemble specializes in material based on Negro life and culture. Although strong in the rich repository of Negro history, the Voices also render the contemporary sounds of Negro life: blues, jazz, ballad, folk-gospel and folk-pop.

The Voices have received their most enthusiastic reception for their original musical/narratives. In these, the narrator dramatically develops the story line; often from some phase of Negro history. The Voices, Inc., in varied combination, weave in and out humming, singing and chanting the soul-saving songs of the Negro past.

The story, a social history, places the melodies in their warm and rightful settings. In turn, the melodies give the story emotional depth, historic realism and a new understanding of a too-often untold portion of the American story.

Tickets for this program are available at the PAHR office (924-2966) between 9:30 and 3:30 weekdays. The price is $1—or, if one wishes to be a Patron—$5. We would appreciate it if you would make an announcement about "The Voices" to your congregation on Sunday, May 2.

Swap Shop

Do you have an article to swap? Bring your household articles, toys, appliances, clothing, etc. to the Wives' Swap Shop in the North Hall Playroom May 8-23. The doors will be open daily until 9:00 in the evening.

The shop will be set up on May 8-10 according to the following schedule:

May 8 from 10:00-6:00
May 9 from 1:00-6:00
May 10 from 10:00-9:00

Mrs. Loetscher, whose husband is a professor at the seminary, has donated her father's ministerial robe and it will be available for swapping.

The shop will be run on a casual basis —just unlatch the door to the North Hall Playroom and browse as often as you like.

Any questions concerning the swap shop should be directed to Mrs. Robert Flegel, 452-2663.
